GEORGIA SOLONS TO BE ADVANCED ON COMMITTEES

Representative Cox Will Rank Third on Important Rules Body Because of Defeat of O'Connor.

VINSON MAY HEAD NAVAL COMMITTEE

Owen Will Retain His Strong Position With Agricultural Group.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Georgia's 10 members of the national house of representatives, with the exception of her one new congressman, W. Ben Gibbs, who will succeed to the seat left vacant by refusal of Representative Braxwell Dean, of the eighth district, to run in the recent primaries, are scheduled for advanced committee standing when the first session of the 76th congress convenes next January 3.

Because of the defeat in last Tuesday's primary in the 16th district of New York, of Representative John J. O'Connor, chairman of the important rules committee, Representative Eugene Cox, of Camilla, Ga., will rank third on that committee, with the chairmanship going to the dean of the house, Representative Adolph A. Sabath, of Illinois, who has already let it be known that he will assert his right of seniority and accept this top committee place.

May Head Committee.
Representative Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, dean of Georgia's congressional delegation, can go no higher than the chairmanship of the committee in naval affairs which, because of the present world situation, may perchance become one of the most vital committees in either house. During the last session of the 75th congress, Mr. Vinson successfully piloted through the lower chamber, a billion-dollar naval construction bill as a measure of just such preparedness as this nation may be called upon to use if the European situation continues to topple on the precipice of war.

Then, there is Representative Robert Ramspeck, who is chairman of the civil service committee and a higher ranking majority member of claims, labor, and merchant marine and fisheries. Mr. Ramspeck ranks next to Chairman Norton, of the labor committee, which, on account of the bitter struggle over wage-hour legislation during the last congress, was almost continuously in the public spot light, and also ranks second to Chairman Ambrose J. Kennedy, of the committee on claims. Mr. Kennedy probably will accept the chairmanship of the committee on the District of Columbia, made vacant by defeat in the Maryland primaries of Representative Vincent L. Palmisano, of Baltimore. However, Mr. Ramspeck could not accept the chairmanship of the committee on claims without giving up his chairmanship of civil service, which it is certain he will do. The Georgian ranks third on the merchant marine and fisheries committee, of which Representative Schuyler Otis Bland, of Newport News, Va., is chairman. These

Impending War Is Theme Of Many Atlanta Sermons

Philosophies Conflict

REV. THEODORE S. WILL.

Rev. Will Says God Is Antidote for War

The world situation today is a result of the conflict of two opposing philosophies. One is the materialistic philosophy of the totalitarian state. The other is the world philosophy of the Christian religion.

In a day of crisis, Christianity must either be the lever-up of society or be leveled down by it.

The antidote for war, in the final analysis, is a genuine belief in the fatherland of God, for in this concept is rooted the brotherhood of all men everywhere.

The materialistic philosophy has been highly organized and enthusiastic. In the past, Christianity has not mobilized its vast spiritual forces to combat the materialistic philosophy.

Dean, De Ovies Says World Conquerors Never Quite Achieve Their Goal.

With Europe poised on the brink of war, thoughtful, Christian men of the cloth expressed their views from Atlanta pulpits yesterday.

In some churches, impending war was mentioned incidentally, to stress a point. In other churches sermons were built around the present situation in Europe, pastors speaking directly or indirectly on the subject.

One of those who spoke from the pulpit was the Rev. Theodore S. Will, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, whose morning sermon was called "The Antidote for War."

The Rev. Mr. Will told his congregation that "the world situation today is the result of the conflict of two opposing philosophies."

"These are the materialistic philosophy of the totalitarian state on the one hand, and the world philosophy of the Christian religion on the other hand."

"The materialistic philosophy has the narrow, national conception of life, developed by force and hate and destruction. The other philosophy contains the ideals of the Christian religion, which grows through love, constructive and mutual co-operation."

"It is impossible for these opposing philosophies to exist side by side."

"In the past, Christianity has not mobilized its vast spiritual forces to combat the materialistic philosophy. But in this concept is rooted the brotherhood of all men everywhere."

The materialistic philosophy has been highly organized and enthusiastic. In the past, Christianity has not mobilized its vast spiritual forces to combat the materialistic philosophy.

Democracies To Blame.

DR. WALT HOLCOMBE.

War for Principle Is Right--Holcombe

Hitler is a greater menace to the peace of the world today than Kaiser Wilhelm ever was, in my opinion. If the democracies of the world had stood firmly for righteousness, Hitler and Mussolini would not have gained the power they have today.

The roots of the crisis today lie in the fact that for the past decade, the democracies have been lax in preparing against such crises. And now the democracies must face the fact that they must fight or lose face.

While I am against fighting for a strip of land—no matter whose land it may be, if the democracies fight now it will be over principles rather than territories. I have visited in Czechoslovakia and I know that there is a land of true democracy.

FRENCH WAR CHIEF CALLED TO LONDON AS CZECHS BALK

British and French Cabinets Meet To Decide If Time Has Come To Accept 'Hitler's Challenge.'

FRENCH LEADERS SUPPORT PRAGUE

Hitler Demands Called Effort to Crush Nation As Independent State.

LONDON, Monday, Sept. 26.—(UP)—On the heels of Czechoslovakia's virtual rejection of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's latest "memorandum" for settlement of the Sudeten crisis, the United Press was informed early today by a high British official that the memorandum was an ultimatum "not open to discussion" and that the British and French governments now are determining "if the time has come to accept Hitler's challenge."

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(Monday) (P)—British and French statesmen, faced with finding a solution of the Czechoslovak crisis before Adolf Hitler's deadline of October 1, adjourned their conversations after midnight and prepared to thresh out the problem at 10 a. m. (3 a. m. Atlanta Time) today. The meeting today was planned after Chamberlain unexpectedly summoned the British Cabinet to a midnight session, the third of the day.

(The United Press said that Chamberlain and Premier Daladier were understood today to have reached an agreement not to make any further concessions to the demands of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler.)

Meanwhile, an official announcement was made at the French embassy that General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, chief of the general staff of the French defense forces, would join Premier Daladier in London today.

To Fly This Morning.
It was understood General Gamelin would fly from Paris this morning. He also was expected to confer with heads of the British general staff.

(United Press dispatches said that Premier Daladier flew to London with France's "final decision"—that she would not go a step beyond the Anglo-French agreement on the partition of Czechoslovakia and was prepared for any alternative.

(A cabinet communique indicated that the Premier had been committed to a precise position in his conference with Prime Minister Chamberlain.)

Official British sources stated that general mobilization by the Prague government Friday followed a notice from the British government that it could not continue to advise Czechoslovakia against such a step.

The notice was coupled with a warning that mobilization might precipitate action by other countries.

As the prime ministers and foreign ministers of the two western European democracies met, they faced four lightning developments in a war-jittery Europe:

1. An unofficial though authoritative report that Czechoslovakia had rejected Hitler's final terms for handing over the Sudetenland.
2. Authoritative disclosure that Hitler had attached a map to his terms sent to Czechoslovakia, marking areas he demanded be ceded outright to Germany. The source disclosing this map said the new German frontier would come

Pertinax Fears War Close Upon Europe

Informed Writer Declares British and French Cabinets Determined Not to Yield to Hitler's Demands

By PERTINAX.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) PARIS, Sept. 25.—(By Wireless).—We feel that we may be nearer a European war than at any time before.

The result of the French cabinet council today and of the Franco-British conference which followed immediately in London has been to make a clear issue of the tangled Czechoslovak problem.

Chancellor Hitler is given an opportunity to annex the German districts of Czechoslovakia, provided he conforms to certain rules of international practice, keeps within the bounds of an agreement which will have to be concluded with the government at Prague, treats that government as a sovereign and independent body, and tolerates that it should keep, under one form or another, its existing association with France and Soviet Russia and form a new association with Britain, which now realizes more and more that Germany's domination of central Europe would be fair to invest her with a crushing economic and military hegemony.

BOTH CABINETS STICK TO ORIGINAL POSITIONS

In other words, the Paris and London cabinets stick to their proposals of September 18, which, as they believed then, fully responded to the requests expressed by the Fuehrer when he met Prime Minister Chamberlain at Berchtesgaden for the first time. But they resist the further demands that Hitler put forward at Godesberg and set out fully in the memorandum that Chamberlain brought back to London, because they consider that, if the Reichswehr seized Czechoslovakia's fortified lines before provisions had been made for safeguarding that country's minimum independence, no limit whatever could be set afterward to Germany's conquests.

Hitler's interest seemingly would be to accept the Franco-British offer which French Foreign Minister Bonnet and Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, compelled Benes to endorse on September 20, since, within four or five weeks, Czechoslovakia's fortified belt would fall within his grasp, the whole Czechoslovak military system, which rests on that belt, would crumble down, and he would be practically at liberty to trample upon all the arrangements worked out to prevent the National Socialist empire from indulging in unlimited expansion.

WHY FUEHRER IS AFRAID TO TRUST COMMISSION

But, on the other hand, Hitler fears that the violent movement he has brought about throughout Germany for the redemption of Germanism in Czechoslovakia, and, more generally, in the whole of central and southeastern Europe, would speedily lose its momentum if he had to call a halt to wait for the conclusion of a task assigned to an international commission that would superintend all the transfers of territory, that, meanwhile, the Czechoslovakia and French governments would make the most of the delay to complete defensive preparations, and that the former might strive to make use of any fresh developments as a pretext to resume freedom of action, break loose from the French-British proposals of September 28 and refuse to withdraw its troops from their fortifications.

Moreover, Hitler suspects that an international commission would do its best to leave the Skoda munitions works on the Czech side of the frontier.

CZECH-RUSSIAN ACCORD ALARMS REICHSFUEHRER

He is keenly apprehensive of Czechoslovak-Russian co-operation which appears to be more extensive than had been assumed by most. It has been ascertained that, three weeks ago, 300 military planes were taken out of the Soviet air force and dispatched to Prague, and that a Russian-Czechoslovak understanding is in existence whereby the Czechoslovak army once it has been compelled to retreat would be given shelter on Russian soil and from that base continue the struggle.

Wilhelmstrasse appears to have been taken aback by the sudden intervention of Russian diplomacy in Warsaw on Friday. When Lipsky, the Polish ambassador, called to inquire about the help that would be lent Poland in case the Red army should counter-attack, only an evasive answer was returned, and Hitler then in Godesberg, most vehemently reacted to the news when it reached him on the telephone.

ARMY WARNS HITLER; DALADIER FACES FACTS

Such are the reasons which may finally turn Hitler toward final adoption of a bellicose policy and impel him to order the Reichswehr to pass the Czechoslovak border about October 1. Against them, the higher command of the Reichswehr still militates, pointing out that victory cannot reasonably be expected to be won within three short months, and that, were the campaign to last longer, breakdown of the German nation would be reckoned as a possibility.

On Sunday, the French cabinet council was led by Premier Daladier, who overruled Bonnet, courageously faced the facts and resolved to put an end to the diplomatic stampe of the last week.

It is painful to think that, a short while ago, such a bold attitude would certainly have averted war. So late in the day, when Germany's military machine is in full swing, it cannot be asserted with confidence that we shall be spared the worst.

Hitler's Map Would Almost Slice Czechoslovakia Into Two Pieces

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(P)—There is no official copy of the map delineating the new frontiers Adolf Hitler demands be cut into Czechoslovakia.

One is in Berlin. The other copy is in Prague, flown there by the British military attaché from Berlin.

This is an oral picture of his map as disclosed by an authoritative source in London: Hitler demands outright cession of a fringe of Czechoslovak territory all along the German frontier except for two small gaps. His demands include both the Sudeten mountains of the north and the Bohemian range on the southwest which since ancient times have provided natural barriers for defense of this land in the heart of Europe.

MIDNIGHT MESSAGE RUSHED TO 4 NATIONS

Continue To Negotiate, Chief Executive Pleads in a Dramatic Request Stressing War's Horrors.

NONE CAN ESCAPE, PRESIDENT WARNS

Situation Declared To Be So Desperate That He Could Not Wait Longer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt in a direct message to Adolf Hitler and President Benes, of Czechoslovakia, appealed today (Monday) for peace.

"On behalf of the 130 millions of people of the United States of America and for the sake of humanity everywhere," the President told them, "I most earnestly appeal to you not to break off negotiations looking to a peaceful, fair and constructive settlement of the questions at issue."

The President also sent the same message, through Secretary of State Hull, to prime ministers of Great Britain and France.

The President declared: "I earnestly repeat that so long as negotiations continue, differences may be reconciled. Once they are broken off, reason is banished and force asserts itself. And force produces no solution for the future good of humanity."

The President painted in his 500-word telegram a terrible picture of what war would mean, costing the lives of millions of men, women and children in every country involved, shattering the economic system of every country concerned, and perhaps completely wrecking their social structures.

The American people, too, he said, "face the fact that no nation can escape some measure of the consequences of this war."

French Call War Chief to London After Czechs Reject Hitler Terms

Chamberlain and Daladier Will Confer Again Today; Sources Indicate Britain Knew of Prague Government's Plan to Mobilize.

within 20 miles of Prague, the Czechoslovak capital.

3. Unanimous agreement by the French cabinet that Hitler's memorandum was "unacceptable."

4. A threat by Premier Mussolini that Italy, that he, too, would take military measures if other nations continue mobilizing their armies and war fleets.

The British prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, and the French premier, Edouard Daladier, and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet opened their momentous discussions at 9:30 p. m. Sunday after the two Frenchmen flew here following their cabinet meeting in Paris.

After they had been in session almost two hours, the British cabinet was summoned unexpectedly shortly before midnight. The Franco-British talks were suspended until Prime Minister Chamberlain presided over the third cabinet session of the day.

This session broke up a few minutes after midnight. The Frenchmen then conferred with Chamberlain for only a few minutes before leaving No. 10 Downing street.

"I can only say it has not been bad," said Daladier as he emerged. "Now I am going to bed. We are all very tired."

The fact that the talks were to be continued today indicated no statement would be issued on Sunday's consultations.

Crowds in Whitehall gave the Frenchmen a great ovation, cheering, "Our Allies," and singing the Marseillaise.

Hundreds of police reinforcements held back the crowds that milled excitedly about London's West End.

The British and French, meeting in their second peace or war talk in eight days, found their task of solving the crisis growing more difficult almost hour by hour.

The Prague government, authoritative sources said, saw the German Fuehrer's demands as calculated to cripple Czechoslovakia economically, financially and industrially and leave her defenseless, crushed as an independent state.

One source said President Edouard Benes, of Czechoslovakia, and his government considered the Nazi demands as infinitely worse than those inflicted on conquered

Paris' Public Buses To Carry Soldiers

PARIS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—More than 800 public buses were commandeered today to quit Paris tomorrow morning for use in transport of troops.

The requisitions left the French capital but two of its busiest bus lines for ordinary transportation.

Germany at Versailles in 1919.

This source said Hitler handed Chamberlain a carefully marked map to illustrate the demands that Chamberlain agreed at Godesberg to transmit to Prague without recommendation.

He said these were the terms:

1. The fringe of Czechoslovakia, shaded red on Hitler's map, including all the country's fortifications facing Germany, to be handed over by October 1 after withdrawal of all Czechoslovak forces;
2. The evacuated territory to be handed over without destruction of any military, economic or traffic plants, air services or radio stations;
3. All railway rolling stock and utility services to be handed over undamaged and no foodstuffs, cattle or raw materials to be removed;
4. Prague must discharge immediately all Sudeten Germans in army and police forces and "permit them to return home";
5. Prague must free all political prisoners of the German race;
6. Germany agrees to permit a plebiscite in additional areas shaded green on Hitler's map before November 25 and allow German-Czechoslovak international commission to make any resulting frontier modifications; a simple majority would determine whether an area would go to Germany or Czechoslovakia.

Refuses Guarantees.

Hitler was understood reliably to have refused to join Britain, France and other of Czechoslovakia's neighbors in border guarantees unless Polish and Hungarian demands for slices of Czechoslovak territory also were granted.

The British-French plan, furthermore, included a proposal to exchange populations with Sudetenland inhabitants free to choose their new homelands. Hitler's memorandum does not mention exchange of populations.

Following is an authoritative summary of the British-French plan:

1. Transfer without plebiscite of areas with over 50 per cent Sudeten German inhabitants, with the provision to arrange by negotiations an adjustment of the frontier where circumstances render it necessary, by some international body including a Czechoslovak representative.
2. Possible exchange of populations on the basis of exercising the right of option freely within some specified time limit.
3. If the Czechoslovak government is prepared to concur in these measures which involve material changes in the condition of the state, they would be entitled to ask for assurance of their future security. A general international guarantee safeguarding the independence of Czechoslovakia against all possible aggression is accordingly provided for by the plan which should be substituted in place of existing treaties of reciprocal and military character. Britain has expressed her willingness to join in this guarantee of new boundaries of the Czechoslovak state against non-provoked aggression.
4. The Anglo-French plan also contains frank acknowledgment by the British and French governments of the great sacrifice thus required of the Czechoslovak government in the cause of peace, and they emphasize that this cause is common both to Europe in general and in particular to Czechoslovakia.

Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovak minister to London, went to the foreign office in the afternoon. He was reported reliably by unofficially to have handed Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, his government's answer.

Geoffrey Lloyd, undersecretary for home affairs who is in charge of air raid precautions, called at No. 10 Downing Street.

Air raid precaution workers reported extreme difficulty fitting children with gas masks because the grotesque appliances frightened many of them.

Britons everywhere were awakening to the imminent menace of war and were taking belated precautions.

Schoolhouses opened today in an effort to meet the scramble for gas masks in vast London where all but the young remembered the terrorizing German air raids in the World War.

Poland last Wednesday presented Czechoslovakia a demand for cession to Poland of Polish-inhabited areas in Czechoslovakia.

Poland last Wednesday presented Czechoslovakia a demand for cession to Poland of Polish-inhabited areas in Czechoslovakia.

Numerous clashes were reported, meanwhile, between Czechoslovak and Poles in the Polish-inhabited Teschen region of Czechoslovakia.

Czechs Dynamite Bridges As Germans Press to Front

War Atmosphere Thickens as Berlin Prepares for Prague's Rejection.

LONDON, Monday, Sept. 26.—(UP)—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Selb, Germany, on the Czech frontier, reported today that Konrad Henlein and other Sudeten party leaders arrived there at midnight and conferred immediately with a high German army officer and a storm trooper staff officer from Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—(AP)—German troops pressed toward the Czechoslovak frontier all day today as preparations in case Czechoslovakia turns down Adolf Hitler's "final" demands for a slice of the republic's territory by October 1.

(From Asch came reports that the Sudeten German "army" advanced its front line to within three-quarters of a mile of Czechoslovak army positions on the Asch-Eger highway in this finger of territory thrust into Germany outside Czechoslovak fortifications.

(One man was reported wounded and a Czechoslovak armored car decommissioned by machine-gun fire as the two forces drew dangerously close together.)

(The United Press said the Czechoslovak army today blew up bridges to impede any possible invasion by 500,000 German troops poised across the border.

(A half-dozen bridges in the Eger area were destroyed.

(Dynamite was planted under strategic bridges, ready for their destruction on a moment's notice.)

War Atmosphere.

As war clouds thickened in Germany, it was believed Hitler might have chosen to announce the terms of his virtual ultimatum to Czechoslovakia when he makes a scheduled speech at a Nazi mass meeting in Berlin's Sportpalast tomorrow.

A great feeling of uneasiness was evidenced by the German public and foreigners living in Germany.

British residents continued a steady exodus.

From Rohrbach, upper Austria, coming into the German zone, a crowd of refugees was seen crossing the Czechoslovak frontier. Halls, schools and other buildings in villages across from Czechoslovakia's southwest border were requisitioned by the German army.

Rohrbach became headquarters for the quartermaster's department and an intelligence division. German frontier guards were equipped with machine-guns and rifles.

Germans in the tense frontier region feared guns yet might speak the last word on the German-Czechoslovak issue, if diplomatic efforts fail, but refugees streaming across from Czechoslovakia were exceedingly confident.

"Everything will turn out right in the end," one declared. Many difficult marches through forests of Sudetenland to escape across the frontier into Germany.

The newspaper Lokalanzeiger declared refugees now totaled 170,000 from Sudetenland.

Germany's press almost unanimously predicted the neighbor would resign himself to accept Hitler's demands for immediate cession of the Sudeten regions and not let matters come to a point where resort to arms might set all Europe ablaze with war.

His Visit to Hitler.

A King Boris of Bulgaria, on a tour of Europe's capitals, called on Reichsfuehrer Hitler today. Previously the Bulgarian monarch has visited London, Paris, Geneva and his father, ex-King Ferdinand, in Coburg.

Sir Neville Henderson, the British ambassador, called on Hitler tonight but the purpose of his visit remained a secret.

The propaganda ministry informed inquirers, however, that word had been received of a proclamation by the Czechoslovak government radio asserting that Prague had mobilized with the approval of Britain and France.

No official confirmation from the ministry spokesman said.

Later the ministry spokesman insisted it was simply unbelievable that Britain and France could have approved the Czechoslovak mobilization.

It was recalled in this connection that Godesberg accounts related that Chamberlain was visibly surprised when told by Hitler of the Czechoslovak mobilization at their final conference.

The propaganda ministry's announcement Hitler would speak at 8 p. m. (1 p. m. Atlanta time) tomorrow night called on everyone to turn out for a mammoth demonstration or to glue their ears to radios or street loudspeakers.

40,000 Cross Border.

"If you cannot find a place in the Sportsplatz, gather in vast numbers for the Fuehrer along the route to the Sportpalast and give him a reception with the feelings which move us all in these historic hours," said a ministry appeal.

"There must be no one in the entire Reich who will not be a witness to this historic demonstration through the radio."

Nazi district leaders were instructed to make arrangements for reception in even the tiniest hamlets.

Three Men Arrested On Burglary Charges.

LUMPKIN, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Three men were charged with burglary tonight on charges of burglary at Gesslin's store, five miles south of Lumpkin, early Saturday, according to Sheriff S. W. Worthington.

Sheriff Worthington identified them as Jack Yeomans, 30, of Columbus, Ga., Jack Hamilton, 19, of Yuma, Ariz., and John Hill, listed as a negro of Charlotte, N. C.

NBC TO BROADCAST HITLER'S ADDRESS

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP) Reichsfuehrer Hitler's speech to the German nation will be rebroadcast in its entirety, with an English translation, over the nation-wide NBC-Blue network from 1 to 1:30 p. m. (Atlanta time) Monday.

MAP PUTS PRAGUE 20 MILES OFF LINE

Hitler's Demand Would Almost Slice Czechoslovakia Into Two Pieces.

Hitler's "new frontiers for Germany" runs as far west as Homolka. The band of territory averages about 20 miles in width—sometimes more, sometimes less.

Then comes a 10-mile gap Hitler does not ask. The line starts anew, running northwest for 105 miles to Domazlice, a strip approximately 25 miles wide.

Here it switches roughly northward for 105 miles to Dub, south of Liberec. It zigzags, passing within five miles of Pilsen, famed home of Lager beer and an important strategic city. Too, it comes within 20 miles of Prague, Czechoslovakia's capital.

65-Mile Cut-In.

In some places, notably the farthest western section, it would cut into Czechoslovakia as much as 65 miles.

From Dub it undulates 75 miles eastward to Spick, leaving a 10-mile frontier gap—one of the eight areas in which Hitler demands a plebiscite giving the citizens their choice of Czechoslovak or German nationality.

A fifth again at Dobrovos going almost due south to a point near Policka, then travels 100 miles east to Pribor, and curves another 50 miles to end at Bohumin, near the Polish frontier.

A bulge in the "new frontier" below Brunn and another bulge rounding Jihlava and north would squeeze central Czechoslovakia to a narrow corridor, scarcely 30 miles wide, choking movement from west to east in Czechoslovakia.

Of eight proposed plebiscite areas, the one just north of Bratislava, includes the important city of Brunn. A second is in the southwest corner of Bohemia, just south of Pilsen. A third is in northeast Bohemia, between Dub and Spick.

A fifth hangs on the "new frontier" from a point east of Policka to a point west of Bohumin, taking in the flourishing city of Ostrava.

There also are three "island" areas, where Hitler would hold plebiscites. One large region surrounding Jihlava and two smaller ones south and east of Vyckon, blocking the "Moravian bottleneck" Hitler wants to create almost cutting Czechoslovakia in two.

These areas cut through vital railway life lines, take in the nation's coal and iron deposits and it is understood, part of the great Skoda munitions works.

quences of such a world catastrophe."

He recalled to the nations the fact that they are signatories to the Kellogg-Briand Anti-War Pact of 1928 and that they have treaties of arbitration for the peaceful solution of international disputes by pacific means.

The President's telegram was released to the press during a dramatic after-midnight convocation of correspondents, many of whom were routed from their beds.

Secretary Hull had worked with the President in preparation of the message throughout the day.

The telegram went forward to the four European capitals involved shortly after midnight. Officials felt the situation so serious, that the President could not wait longer to send his appeal for peace.

The President said he was "persuaded that there is no problem so difficult, or so pressing for solution, that it can not be justly solved by the resort to reason, rather than by the resort to force."

He added:

So long as these negotiations continue so long will there remain the hope that reason and the spirit of equity may prevail and that the world may thereby escape the madness of a new resort to war."

Text of Roosevelt's Appeal to Hitler, Benes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP) The text of President Roosevelt's message to Adolf Hitler and President Benes, of Czechoslovakia, follows:

The fabric of peace on the continent of Europe, if not throughout the rest of the world, is in immediate danger. The consequences of its rupture are incalculable. Should hostilities break out the lives of millions of men, women and children in every country involved would most certainly be lost under circumstances of unspeakable horror.

The economic system of every country involved is certain to be shattered. The social structure of every country involved may well be completely wrecked.

AMERICANS DESIRE TO LIVE IN PEACE.

The United States has no political entanglements. It is caught in no mesh of hatred. Elements of all Europe have formed its civilization.

The supreme desire of the American people is to live in peace. But in the event of a general war they face the fact that no nation can escape some measure of the consequences of such a world catastrophe.

The traditional policy of the United States has been the furtherance of peace for such of international disputes by pacific means. It is my conviction that all people under the threat of war today pray that peace may be made before, rather than after, war.

ARBITRATIONS AND TREATIES CITED

It is imperative that peoples everywhere recall that every civilized nation of the world voluntarily assumed the solemn obligations of the Kellogg-Briand pact of 1928 to solve controversies only by pacific methods. In addition, most nations are parties to other binding treaties obligating them to preserve peace. Furthermore, all countries have agreed to the League of Nations solution of difficulties which may arise, treaties of arbitration and conciliation to which they are parties.

Whatever may be the differences in the controversies at issue and however difficult of pacific settlement they may be, I am persuaded that there is no problem so difficult or so pressing for solution that it can not be justly solved by the resort to reason, rather than by the resort to force.

During the present crisis the people of the United States and their government have earnestly hoped that the negotiations for the adjustment of the controversy which has now arisen in Europe might reach a successful conclusion.

So long as these negotiations continue so long will there remain the hope that reason and the spirit of equity may prevail and that the world may thereby escape the madness of a new resort to war.

EARNEST APPEAL FOR PEACE MADE

On behalf of the 130 millions of people of the United States and America and for the sake of humanity everywhere I most earnestly appeal to you not to break off negotiations looking to a peaceful, fair and constructive settlement of the questions at issue.

I earnestly repeat that so long as negotiations continue, differences may be reconciled. Once they are broken off reason is banished and force asserts itself.

And force produces no solution for the future good of humanity.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA'S BIRTH IS PICTURED

Little Republic Created in Philadelphia's Independence Hall in 1918.

(Copyright, 1938, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Now, in the dark days for Czechoslovakia, you can perceive the capture of history in the recollection of the day that the sun streamed through the windows of Independence Hall.

Thomas G. Masaryk, a man of destiny, president of Czechoslovakia, then the youngest republic in the world, thought it was a good omen—the sun bursting beneficently upon him just as he lifted his pen to sign a new Declaration of Independence.

The day was October 28, 1918.

The republic of Czechoslovakia already had been formed; it only remained to be proclaimed. And two days later, in Prague, the Austro-Hungarian empire gasping out its last breath, the Czechoslovak national committee proclaimed itself a government. A government, it thought, forever free.

Democracy was on the march 20 years ago and those who are wondering now what Czechoslovakia will do may find their answer on the banner carried by one in the crowd that surrounded Independence Hall in Philadelphia on October 26, 1918:

"The motto of the Czechoslovaks is Independence or Death!"

Bonds of Tyranny Broken.

The Declaration of Independence signed here gave birth to the democratic mid-European union.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE Bad Breath

You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—about others can! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.

POLIDENT Cleans, Purifies Like Magic

Put plate or bridge in 4% solution of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

Ordinary brushing can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.

Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities. Good Housekeeping and 12,000,000 thousands of users. Long-lasting can cost only 30¢ at any drug store.

WAGE-HOUR LAWS, NLRB ACT RAPPED BY FREY, AFL AIDE

Annual Report Scores Government Bureaucracy, CIO, Communists.

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 25.—(AP)—John P. Frey, chief of the AFL metal trades department, attacked federal regulation of wages and industrial relations today and called for greater co-operation between labor and industry.

In his annual report to the metal trades conference, Frey said that the trade union movement was founded on "self government in industry instead of government by bureaus and administrations."

Congress, he declared, would do much to prevent recurring depressions by establishing "proper and adequate rules under which business is to be conducted."

"Business and organized labor through the conference room and collective bargaining, must then work out the problem of stable production and the economically sound division of the wealth being created," he said.

Frey's report criticized both the wage-hour law and the national labor relations act. The administration of the latter, he said, was a "disrupting" factor in American industry.

Authority Extraordinary.

"Both the law and the personnel must be changed before the board under the Wagner act can constructively and sanely apply its authority to protect the right of wage earners to be represented by organizations of their own choosing," he said.

The wage-hour law, he continued, conferred "extraordinary authority" on the administrator amounting to "bureaucratic or commissar control."

He also criticized the activity of Communists in the labor movement, the political ventures of the rival CIO, and its contributions to political campaigns.

In less specific terms, he struck at centralization of government authority, "college professors and theorists in administrative posts," and at a "super-intelligent, highly educated minority" he said was preaching that workers should trade their independence for security.

Recalling some of the political activities of the CIO, Frey said:

CIO Entry Created Issue.
"The definite entry of the CIO into the political fields creates an issue which we cannot escape. The political activities of the CIO have led many representatives in state legislatures and in congress to give more consideration to the probabilities of CIO strength than the merits of legislative measures coming to their attention."

"The non-partisan political policy of the American Federation of Labor serves to indicate the most effective method of meeting this problem." (The federation's policy is to remain non-partisan.)

"Heavy, heavy hangs over your head—"

That is what guests visiting the Inman circle home of the Rev. and Mrs. Stuart Oglesby hear when they walk under the large pumpkin which hangs over the porch.

It would be fine for the Sigma Delta freshman party at Hall-oween, thinks Miss Emmy Martin as she examines the pumpkin in the freak growth over the porch entrance at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Stuart Oglesby at 89 Inman circle in Ansley Park. The pumpkin is 36 inches in diameter.

36-Inch Pumpkin in Freak Growth Hangs at Oglesby Home Porchway

Vine Winds Way 15 Feet From Ground to Its Present Position Where Basket Screen Has Been Placed To Relieve Weight Pressure.

"Heavy, heavy hangs over your head—"

That is what guests visiting the Inman circle home of the Rev. and Mrs. Stuart Oglesby hear when they walk under the large pumpkin which hangs over the porch.

It would be fine for the Sigma Delta freshman party at Hall-oween, thinks Miss Emmy Martin as she examines the pumpkin in the freak growth over the porch entrance at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Stuart Oglesby at 89 Inman circle in Ansley Park. The pumpkin is 36 inches in diameter.

There has been to reward its friends and punish its enemies regardless of party.

The political expenditures of the CIO in the 1936 Democratic presidential campaign and later in the 1938 Pennsylvania Democratic primary, Frey declared, "eclipsed all political records."

"These enormous expenditures," he added, "are an evidence of what labor may expect if it is to indulge in partisan politics, a larger expenditure for political purposes than for all other trade union activities combined."

Reiterating some of his anti-Communism testimony before the Dies house committee, Frey charged that the Communists acquired a directive part in the American labor movement when the CIO was organized.

In calling for co-operation between business and government, Frey said both understood their problems as thoroughly "as the great majority of those who profess to be economists."

kin which hangs over the porch entrance at the residence.

The pumpkin is 36 inches in diameter, and in the course of its freak growth wound its way from the ground level to its present position, which is approximately 15 feet.

A piece of wire screen has been hung under the pumpkin in basket effect to relieve the pressure of its weight. Other pieces of the fruit failed to reach maturity and fell off the vine in its early bearing stage.

The only explanation given by the family of the unusual course of the pumpkin vine is that Mrs. Oglesby transplanted some flower plants from the back yard of her home to the flower bed which borders the front porch. It is possible that a seed was in the plant mixture, hence the growth up the side of the house and across the entrance.

Rev. and Mrs. Oglesby, not to be outdone by a pumpkin vine springing up in the flower bed, wound string around the pillar on the porch and across the front for the vine to run its unusual course. Future pumpkin pies served on the Oglesby's table will no doubt have an unusual if not haughty background.

NATION'S PRODUCTION AT LAST FALL'S LEVEL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board estimated today that industrial production had returned to the level of last fall although it still was far below peak 1937 averages.

The board said August production was 88 per cent of the 1923-1925 average, and on a seasonally adjusted basis was equal to the output of November, 1937, which was the third month of decline at the beginning of the current slump. Last year's peak index figure was 118.

2 FORTIFIED HILLS TAKEN BY SPANISH

Dispatches Tell of Government Offensive in Teruel Sector.

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Sept. 25.—(AP) The Spanish government reported today its troops had captured two fortified hills west of Manzanara, imperiling an insurgent force in Teruel province.

An enveloping action, dispatches said, resulted in the successful storming of the hills near Puente de Caraballa. Renewal of the government offensive in the Teruel sector, a key to insurgent attempts to reach Valencia on the Mediterranean coast, came after two days of resisting insurgent counter-attacks, the government said.

Disputing insurgent reports that the drive had been stopped in Cordoba province, the government declared its offensive was continuing and insurgents were suffering heavy losses in vain counter-attacks.

Insurgents said the government was encountering stone-wall defenses and suffering heavy casualties on the Cordoba front.

WILLIAM LUKE GAY RITES TOMORROW

Retired Streetcar Operator Dies, Aged 67.

William Luke Gay, 67, retired street car operator for the Georgia Power Company, died yesterday morning at his home on Decatur road, Brookhaven, after a brief illness.

Mr. Gay was an employee of the power company for 38 years. He retired only recently. He was a member of the Junior Order of the United American Mechanics, Sardis Lodge No. 107, F. & A. M. the Chamber Baptist church and of Division 732 of the Street Car Men's Union.

Surviving are his wife; five daughters, Mrs. L. M. Paris, Mrs. R. L. Sheffield, Mrs. Louise Livey, Mrs. Roy Palmer and Mrs. G. S. Wall; two brothers, John and Robert Gay; three sisters, Mrs. J. W. Purcell, Mrs. William Hyde and Mrs. C. P. Jones, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Chamber Baptist church, with the Rev. T. J. Tribble and the Rev. W. F. Burdett officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

MRS. EZRA TIPPENS DIES IN BRUNSWICK

Burial in Bethel Cemetery, Near Surrency.

JESUP, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Ezra Eason Tippens, 68, died in a Brunswick hospital yesterday after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Tippens was the widow of the Rev. J. V. Tippens, long a prominent member of the South Georgia Methodist Conference. Survivors include four sons, two daughters, two brothers and several grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Bethel church near Surrency today. Burial was in the church cemetery.

ANSWERS ARE FILED IN BEDSPREAD SUITS

ROME, Ga., Sept. 25.—Two more answers by defendants in the group of bedspread patent infringement suits against northern Georgia companies were on file today in the federal district court here, Deputy Clerk John Harris said.

Attorneys for Jack Franco, doing business as Primrose Candlewick Products, of Dalton, Ga., filed the two latest answers in reply to allegations of the Deltex Rug Company, of Oshkosh, Wis., and the Boyssell Company, of Gastonia, N. C. Defendant denies infringement of the disputed patents.

Answers in three other similar suits had already been filed, with defendants claiming that the patents allegedly infringed upon were null and void because the alleged inventors were not the original, first or sole inventors of the alleged improvements.

MRS. JOHN G. SIMPSON DIES IN CHATTANOOGA

Mrs. John G. Simpson, wife of J. G. Simpson, manager of the Westinghouse Company at Chattanooga, died yesterday afternoon at her home in the Tennessee city.

Mrs. Simpson was the former Miss Lucy Jones, of Cartersville, daughter of the late Rev. Joseph Jones. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at Cartersville.

MRS. THOMPSON DIES

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Laura Cox Thompson, 92, died here today at the residence of her son, Frederick I. Thompson, former Mobile newspaper publisher.

$2,000,000 Sky Leviathan Carries 42 Passengers and Crew of Five

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 25.—(AP) The giant 42-passenger Douglas DC-4 airliner in 46 test flights has exceeded the predictions of its designers, Arthur E. Raymond, vice president and chief engineer of the Douglas Aircraft Corporation, announced today.

The sky leviathan was built to the order of five major airlines, United, TWA, American, Pan-American and Eastern, at a cost of nearly $2,000,000.

With the horsepower available still to be increased, Raymond announced these results:

"The guaranteed high speed of 240 miles an hour was exceeded by comfortable margin. A series of flights over a measured speed course, including one hour at full power at 10,000 feet and one hour at 1,000 feet, gave the data for the test."

YEGGS TAKE $378 IN SAFE ROBBERY

Other Burglaries in City Over Week End Are Reported to Police.

Safe robbers stole $378 from one business establishment and attempted to "blow" a safe at another, as other burglaries and robberies occurred in various parts of the city over the week end, police reports revealed yesterday.

S. C. Sewell, manager of a clothing company at 40 Marietta street, S. W., told police yeggs removed the door of a safe in offices of the place, and then carried the safe from the front to the rear of the building.

The yeggs took in $378 in cash, but left an undetermined amount in checks, Sewell reported. The safe robbers entered through a window in the rear of the basement.

The safe robbery attempt was discovered at the Reynolds Distributing Company, 339 Elizabeth street, N. E., by Radio Patrolmen R. E. Mann and H. E. McCurley when they investigated a broken window in the rear of the building.

R. A. Walker, salesman for an electric company at 528 Means street, told police burglars entered the place by taking staples from a driveway gate. An undetermined amount of loot was taken. Police learned four white men were seen entering the premises in a truck early Saturday night.

T. S. Wilson, of 129 North avenue, reported theft of $71 in clothing, jewelry and other articles from his apartment. Entrance was gained through a window.

1,000 SEEK TESTS FOR JOB BUREAU

Examinations Will Be Held October 15.

Mrs. Maude B. Curtis, supervisor of examinations for the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, announced Saturday more than 1,000 persons had filed applications for examinations October 15 for 12 administrative and clerical positions in the bureau.

Deadline for filing applications is October 5, Mrs. Curtis said. Examinations 10 days later will be conducted in 10 cities throughout the state.

Included in the positions to be filled are those of director of the unemployment compensation division with a monthly salary of from $333.33 to $416.66, and principal attorney in a $400 maximum monthly salary bracket.

Two clerical posts—junior file clerk and claim clerk—have been withdrawn from the previously announced list of examinations, Mrs. Curtis said.

HENRY B. CRUISE, 65, FINAL RITES IN ROME

Funeral services for Henry B. Cruise, 65, veteran employee of the Southern railway system, who died Saturday in a Rome (Ga.) hospital after a brief illness, were conducted yesterday afternoon in a funeral chapel at Rome by Dr. J. R. Mitchell, of Atlanta, and the Rev. H. E. Wright, of Rome. Burial was in Myrtle Hill cemetery here.

A native of Taylorsville, Mr. Cruise was one of the oldest engineers in the railroad's employ when he retired August 1. He lived in Atlanta eight years, but had lived most of the time in Rome. He served two years on the Rome city commission and was a member of the Seventh Day Adventist church and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

UTES ARE CONDUCTED FOR T. R. EDWARDS SR.

Funeral services for Thomas R. Edwards Sr., 76, former school teacher, who died Saturday after an illness of several months, were conducted yesterday afternoon at the Woodbury (Ga.) Baptist church by the Rev. O. E. Graves. Burial was in Woodbury cemetery, under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

A native of Bainbridge, Ga., Mr. Edwards was a graduate of the University of Georgia, where he was a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He was a teacher in Georgia public schools for many years before retiring several years ago. Since that time, he had made his home in Woodbury.

ATLANTAN'S HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire of undetermined origin early yesterday morning damaged the first floor of the home of Miss Ada West, of 29 Tenth street, N. W., but was quickly extinguished by firemen.

The fire broke out about an hour after Miss West left home for a visit to Columbus, Ga., neighbors told police. Damage was confined to furniture and decorations.

Orchid Discovered With 3-Foot Petals

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—One of the world's rare mammoth orchids—an orange hued bloom with petals three feet long—has been added to the widely known collection of the Missouri Botanical Gardens.

Dr. Robert Everard Woodson Jr., obtained it in the Panama jungles, from which he just returned. The species known as "Chinellas," has been found only three times in the last century, he said.

PATROLMAN IS HURT ARRESTING TWO MEN

Patrolman C. L. Heath suffered a badly bruised right foot yesterday morning while arresting two men on charges of fighting and drunk and disorderly in a downtown hotel cafe.

The men arrested gave their names as George Roberts, of Hapeville, and W. T. Thomas, no address. Patrolman Heath reported the men were fighting, and, as he was escorting them out of the cafe a brief struggle ensued in which the officer turned his ankle.

The officer was treated at Grady hospital.

3 DEAD, 5 INJURED IN SOUTH GEORGIA

Tom McGovern and Mrs. Nancy Smith Are Killed in Collision.

Three deaths and injuries to five persons in two south Georgia accidents were reported to state Highway Patrol headquarters yesterday.

Lon Sullivan, state director of safety education, said Tom McGovern, 22, of Kirkland, and Mrs. Nancy Smith, 75, also of Kirkland, were killed shortly before midnight Saturday in an automobile-truck collision near Pearson.

Sullivan said Tom McGovern was driving the automobile and Mrs. Smith was in the truck. Henry McGovern, Emmett Sumnerlin and Fletcher Rutherford, companions of Tom McGovern, were injured and were taken to a Douglas hospital, troopers reported.

At about the same hour, Sullivan said, Eddie Smith, 21, of Fairfax, was killed when his parked automobile was struck by another car on a road near that town.

N. C. Acker, a companion of Smith and also a Fairfax resident, was hurt. H. B. Redley, of Brunswick, an occupant of the other automobile, also was injured.

THE GOOD LIVES ON

On succeeding days last week two references to Commander Matthew Fontaine Maury, U. S. N., appeared on this page. It was more than 20 years ago the events mentioned took place, yet it is interesting to note that, while Maury is practically unknown to younger generations, the influence of his life work remains strong. And the younger generation in the navy knows him very well.

The Virginian became interested in the movements of ocean currents, in islands not shown on then existing maps and in wrecks dangerous to navigation, while an ensign assigned to the U. S. S. Vincennes during her voyage around the world in 1828. This interest remained strong, and when, in 1839, he suffered a fractured leg that left him a cripple for life, he turned to the hydrography, then a haphazard science. He enlisted the assistance of naval commanders and merchant marine captains. On their voyages they tossed overboard hundreds of bottles "addressed" to Maury. "Maury" bottles floated the surface of the seven seas as the waters yielded their secrets of flow to the father of modern hydrography. Locations of islands not shown on existing charts were sent him at Washington.

Thus the crippled scientist mapped the currents of the oceans and filled in the maps of the world. All this before the War Between the States, 77 years ago. Many of the charts used by navigators today bear the name of Maury, unchanged in all these years. His work for the United States navy ended with the outbreak of civil strife, and in the service of the Confederacy he lived in Europe until peace came. He later served the Emperor Maximilian of Mexico as commissioner of emigration. He ended his days in Virginia.

School children of an earlier day knew him for his geography, standard in many systems until well after the turn of the century. Today, while his name is virtually unknown to the general public, his work still constitutes the most vital contribution to the safety of ships at sea, and to the knowledge of the world of thousands upon thousands of adults, many of whom probably do not recall the name of the man most responsible.

IS IT WORTH THE PRICE?

Following the civil strife which temporarily rent the nation asunder three-quarters of a century ago, came the great era of industrial expansion in the United States. The tremendous influx of workers—millions of them—from distant corners of the country, as well as from foreign lands, created intolerable working conditions and standards of living in the newly overcrowded centers. Work days were excessively long, wages low, factory facilities unsanitary and the surroundings often unsanitary.

It was immediately apparent to the worker that something should be done to ameliorate these conditions. It was obvious, with few exceptions, that no material assistance to this end could be expected voluntarily from the corporate bodies rapidly assuming control. Their exclusive business, it seemed, was to garner the profits in the spirit of the times. So the lines, from the very beginning, were drawn between the two factions—industry and labor. It was under such circumstances, conceived in bitterness and hatred, that the labor movement in the United States was given birth.

Unions were rapidly formed. But no legal status was given these workers' organizations by industry—save the individual right to collect and spend an industrially fixed wage at the end of an usually long and arduous week. Workers became restive. Strike after strike followed through years of uncompromising bitterness. Step by step, bit by bit, little by little—now here, now there—rights and privileges never remotely dreamed in the old days were gradually exacted from employers. The union became a legally recognized entity.

During this period of development the politician was never loath to curry favor with the labor leader. No sooner was it discovered that union membership played no small part at the ballot box, than a certain type of politician—the crusader—began promising fantastically short working hours, high wages and "idealistic" working conditions. Most of these impossibly short cuts to Utopia served the politician to better advantage—as campaign material—than the working man for whose benefit they were ostensibly intended. When such measures were defeated, the defeat was invariably attributed by these self-anointed, golden-haired crusaders to the "vested interests."

After the plunge from the peak of 1929, the height of industrial activity, the politician, to an even greater extent, went in for panaceas, nostrums and cure-alls. Millions were unemployed. The people were restive. A new regime in Americanism was launched. At no period in the history of man were as many regulations, for the benefit of the working man, enacted into law.

Measured solely by its idealism, by a determination to do something for the worker, the program may be adjudged a success. It has provided him with many advantages which he should be reluctant to lose. It has strengthened his position. But, measured by its failure to restore him to a state of prosperity, as it was purported to do, it has failed. True, he now has higher wage scales and shorter working hours. But he also has few jobs. So, for this reason, the program must be extended. Vast sums of money are being poured out to create artificial work. Additional laws—more regulations—are to be enacted at the next session of congress.

The worker should remember, before it is too late, that a man's liberties are nonetheless encroached upon because those who regulate succeed in making him believe he will be greatly benefited thereby. Depriving a man of his freedom of action, of the privilege of working where, when, and as he pleases, under the belief that he is being benefited, is none the less a crime.

It should not be forgotten that it was under such circumstances, identically, that the dictators of Europe gained power. Under the guise of setting up regulations for his benefit, the working man was induced to give up his rights. Now he can't recover them. He can't strike. He can't even join a union because there aren't any unions!

TREASURY RECEIPTS

Some interesting comparisons are contained in the newly released Treasury Department comparative statement of internal revenue collections for August, 1938, and August, 1937. Receipts by the Treasury were some $26,000,000 greater this year than last, due chiefly to railroad employment compensation taxes and social security payments. Most other categories showed losses, while the few that gained revealed an indication of depression slidelights.

For example, cigarette taxes yielded $2,000,000 more than they did in 1937. Other tobacco levies brought in correspondingly higher returns. Idle men, apparently, find solace in tobacco.

Automobiles, however, yielded only $331,784 against $2,055,110 for 1937. This was because people kept their old cars, or purchased used cars, since increased gasoline consumption yielded the government $19,369,069, compared with the 1937 figure of $13,721,866. Idle brains apparently find relief in riding. Too, it is improbable that the fact a greater number of persons had completed installment payments on their automobiles led to greater use of the automobiles for recreation, and that much of the sums that had been going into installment payments on the cars were used in increased mileage. Fewer tires were purchased, so it may be assumed that a measure of safety has been neglected.

Heavy earnings during the first half of 1937 brought a slight increase in 1938 corporation income tax payments, while the recession of the last half affected individual income tax payments in the opposite direction.

The fur business apparently bore a large part of the brunt—tax payments dropped from $425,641 to only $45,245. A reversal of this trend may be expected as business improves. Cameras, which might be regarded as a luxury, on the other hand yielded more money to the government. The "candid camera" rage is paying dividends.

Safety deposit box taxes were another significant index, the government receiving an increased yield from this source, although to a comparatively slight extent.

In general, however, the report was highly encouraging and indicated that the jam had been breaking up, with the prospect that the fall months will find the government closing the gap between income and expenditures.

Ambassador Kennedy's son, John, brought President Roosevelt a gift the other day—a harpoon gun. Better late than never!

Editorial of the Day

"PARALYSIS OF WILL"

(From The Boston Herald)

The elder La Follette once said "we have long rested comfortably in this country on the assumption that because our form of government was democratic it was therefore automatically producing democratic results." To read Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's address at Southampton is to be reminded of that shrewd saying.

There is general recognition today that, while the idea of democracy is the rule of the people, our system is capable of being the worst as well as the best form of government. All depends on whether the people are at their best or worst. Democracy has no magic formula for the production of security, prosperity and happiness. It may be imperiled from within, by the corruption of the people, or by their failure to react intelligently to the policies of their agents.

The keenest thrust in the address is this, that "the great trouble with democracy is paralysis of will." While American democracy may be assailed from without, President Butler points out that it may be undermined from within by revolution through taxation, by bureaucracy, and by the exaltation of the presidential power.

The public has heard much about taxation, not as the means for carrying on an efficient government but as a method for the redistribution of the wealth of the nation. There may be less of popular appeal in this phase of the discussion, because the opinion is widespread and unfortunately has not been subjected to effective contradiction, that the major portion of our wealth has been accumulated by predatory and unfair means. The multiplication of administrative boards at Washington was watched at first with amazement. Now it is accepted with resignation. Yet most thoughtful persons are bound to feel that to endow such boards by law with control of the greater part of the nation's private enterprise is a step in the direction of the totalitarianism which exists in Germany and Italy.

Whatever may be the merit of these opinions, Dr. Butler without question is right in holding that if our democracy is undermined it will be because of indifference, not because the majority of the people really prefer something different. The most encouraging token that they do not is to be found in their swift reaction to the President's court-packing proposal and to his activity in primaries.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Hate is a fear, and fear is rot
That cankers root and fruit alike;
Fight cleanly then, hate not, fear not,
Strike with no madness when you strike."

Fifty-five per cent in the country at large, 67 per cent in the south—these, according to the uncanny Gallup polls, are the proportions by which Franklin Roosevelt holds his popularity in spite of unmistakable disapproval of purges and a third term. They should tell the pathological haters, the resurrectors of old and rotten stories, the shudders at the sound of his voice, the frighteners of little children with his awful name, that their fear is no longer reasonable and their hate no longer wise.

It is no longer reasonable of those who think Roosevelt policies will destroy the country or their business to fear those policies hysterically. Both congress and the people have shown their willingness to oppose the President, to decide against him (even though the deciding against him costs him nothing in personal popularity). If war should come he might recover the control over the country which he had a few years ago—but even those who most hate his domestic policies seem to feel that his foreign and military ones are sound. Short of war, however, nothing is likely to give him again the power he once had. He is just a chief executive now, head of only one of three branches of American government. The emergency which gave him extraordinary powers is ended (or assimilated), and his human tendency to continue the exercise of those powers has been stopped by order of the people of the United States.

It is no longer necessary to fear him—and it is no longer wise to hate him. Hate of him in groups representing the strongest if not the most numerous elements in America is about the most demoralizing factor in the nation's life now, the one most destructive of national confidence and spiritual health. What's more, the excess of it turns many people back to Roosevelt who are about to stray and widens the gap between classes by suggesting that the properties of one are implacable against the humanitarian ideals to which Franklin Roosevelt is obviously devoted. What is still more, it is ruining feminine beauty, destroying masculine nervous systems, clouding home lives, cloying appetites, developing all manner of complexes, distempers and fits.

Another thing to be considered about Franklin Roosevelt now is that, with the exception of those in the south, the political setbacks he has suffered this year have been largely at the hands not of those more conservative than he, but of those more radical. He has been beaten not by the elements he calls economic royalists but by the ones he calls the lunatic fringe, Townsends, "430-every-Thursdays" people, the money jugglers, takers-in-of-each-other's-washing, defeated Roosevelt's men or his party in California, in Idaho, in New Hampshire, in Maine. If Huey Long were alive to lead them, these radicals would be united and strong enough to constitute a threat against which only Franklin Roosevelt himself could prevail—and in face of which the bitterest haters of the President would be his allies.

Roosevelt is no longer master of America, and will not be again unless war or domestic hate make him so. But he continues to be America's most popular leader, and the social and economic ideals for which he stands continue dear and need. Recognition of the facts should relieve a great body of successful and deserving citizens of both hate and fear.

SILHOUETTES

By WILLARD COPE

Guest Columnist.

In this moment of majestic solemnity, when, as might be said, helmeted and bayoneted millions move as awesome silhouettes against a horizon fitfully alight with horrific promise, these calmly reasonable—even wistful—phrases of the gentle and revered Fridtjof Nansen well may be produced in today's "Silhouettes."

"...we dream of a new era for mankind, a time of a better life, of lasting peace, of brotherhood and good will between individuals, classes, and peoples, of mutual confidence and co-operation. Can this dream be realized? Some people think that a better world can be created by sudden improvement, by force, or even by revolution. It was people of this frame of mind who proposed to wage a 'war to end war,' but all they reaped was destruction. The old proverb that Beelzebub has to be driven out by Beelzebub is a dangerous one; the use of evil will create more evil, and more heathen feeling and the more force more need of force. The lasting betterment of the world cannot be reached by short-cuts of this kind; it must come by gradual growth from within. It can only be attained by education, and time is needed."

Nationalistic Moral Code.

"Again, let us think of the nationalistic moral code. When a man acts for his country, he has to give up his own private moral principle; if he can gain something for his nation by the surrender, it is supposed to be his moral duty to lie, betray, steal secret documents, rob and murder. And if he succeeds, he is highly praised as a great patriot and benefactor of his country. The ad-man is ordered to go as a spy into a hostile country, it is his moral duty to go and to do his best to discover by trickery the secrets of the enemy. If he is caught, he has to be shot, and the soldiers who get the order to shoot him are morally obliged to do so, even though they may be convinced that he is really an excellent person of high moral qualities. . . .

Necessary To Build New Moral Code.

"It is necessary to build up a new, sound moral code in harmony with modern views, freed as much as possible from superstition, and based on the old principles of solidarity and love. It should be clearly understood that moral rules are not commands which have to be obeyed through fear—the lowest instinct in man—but they are good in themselves, because their observance furthers the welfare of men in this life. As a general rule it may be said that moral acts are those which in their final effects do good to the individual as well as to the community, while immoral acts are those which finally harm the community or the individual, or to both."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Dies' NEW YORK, Sept. 25. League There is something pathetic about the proposal of Representative Martin Dies to form a great league to preserve the fundamental principles of Americanism and to oppose Fascism and Communism in the United States. Mr. Dies, chairman of the house committee on un-American activities, seems to underrate the influence of his own inquiry. Contrary to his apparent belief, his investigation to date has had good effect and it continued, with due attention to the activities of Italian Fascists and German Nazi groups, will command the respectful attention of the nation. On the other hand, there is a danger that an emotional nationalistic organization would develop into a strong-arm machine itself, and certainly it is unwise to create such a force under the influence of a committee of congress.

Whatever distress it may cause completely loyal citizens of Italian or German origin or stock, the fact remains that both Italian Fascists and German Nazis here do abuse the tolerance of this country. Black Shirts join Brown shirts in demonstrations of contempt for the American form of government and for the rights of alien blood who cherish American liberties. Not only that, but by the terrible force of brutal reprisals of the kind of such Americans still residing in the old countries they wield a coercive force over the American citizens in the United States.

Open Enmity

The enemy of Mussolini and Hitler for this country and its people has been expressed repeatedly. Mussolini's papers constantly call us a nation of gangsters, and, as Mr. Ciarfania, of the New York Times, recently wrote from Rome, a decent word has not been written of this country in the Italian press in more than two years. This is the policy of the Italian government.

Hitler expressed his intentions when one of his state newspapers threatened that the Reich would take an interest in American affairs which would not be pleasant. This intervention in American affairs is to be seen in the activities of the Nazi Bund, our equivalent of the Henlein conspiracy in Czechoslovakia.

Mr. Dies has paid too little attention to the Fascists and the Nazis. And, although he has done good work on the Communists, as their angry protests show, even that job is incomplete. It is a sad state of affairs, but even in this free country this committee of congress will find it hard to get the rush of German propaganda to be seen in the activities of the Nazi Bund, our equivalent of the Henlein conspiracy in Czechoslovakia.

The Fascist influence is so strong in cooperation with the Communists, the Fascist foreign press in this country that in some quarters it is highly unpopular to advocate Americanism above Italian Fascism and to resent the anti-American propaganda of the Duce. All this goes on in the United States and would seem to deserve no attention from Mr. Dies' committee when the infiltration of the Moscow influence in the WPA, whose distinguished executive, Mr. Aubrey Williams, recently exhorted the Workers' Alliance, a group with a strong Communist membership, to "keep your friends in power."

Such investigations as Mr. Dies has been conducting are necessary from time to time to expose to American view and remedial indignation offenses against the country's hospitality which are inevitable under the American system. Merely to expose the conspiracies, however, and to prosecute under the very liberal laws of the country those who overstep the bounds of democratic tolerance and to keep the evils in check. Mr. Dies' work is not half done. It is an unpleasant job which many able congressmen would shirk, for there is no surer way to incur the fierce and scurrilous wrath of the anti-American and the charge of un-Americanism than by exposing anti-American conspiracies.

Cosmetic Shortage.

Federal pure food and drug official, Paul B. Dunbar, says he's afraid that in spring, 1939, there may be a temporary shortage of lipstick, rouge, fingernail polish and other cosmetics containing coal tar dyes—unless manufacturers submit color samples quickly for government approval.

A new law, which goes into effect in July, 1939, makes it illegal to market such preparations unless coal tar colors have been tested and certified by the government. Officials say it takes several months to make the tests, get the color back to manufacturers so they can go into production.

Once Taught to Expect Cakes,

A Park Bear Is Never Content

With Natural Foods

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

About one hundred years ago, in the golden age of American literature and philosophy, when every second person in New England seemed a genius, less gifted people ardently pursued the business of getting rich and regarded shrewdness as a virtue second only to thrift.

A brilliant and erratic gentleman named Christopher Cranch, preacher, musician, poet and artist, spent much of his time in Italy. His visits at home were depressing, for the look in people's faces was hard and unhappy, and most of them seemed weary and anxious. Faces in Italy were not like that.

Apparently the American countenance has changed little. Margaret Halsey, the professor's wife who spent a year in England and lived to write a best-seller about her experiences, was astonished by the placid and unfading cheerfulness of the English lower classes—the ungentry, she called them.

To be surprised by cheerful countenances was a hard commentary on the kind she had been seeing. It was the contrast that made her realize, as Cranch had a century before, that American faces are anxious.

What makes the lower class British so uniformly cheerful in his poverty? It isn't security. It can't be the saturated, sunless climate he lives in. It can't be inherent, for most of us came of the same stock.

Miss Halsey's explanation, undoubtedly true, is that servants and workers in England, long accustomed to the class system and never having been exposed to success stories, have no thought of climbing.

Knowing he can't be more than he is, or richer than he is, the Englishman accepts the inevitable and doesn't fret about it. He is well satisfied with himself and so has no incentive to change.

Once they accept a condition as not subject to change, people are content and cheerful.

Colored people in the deep south are America's poorest and yet the happiest. They accept life as it is, knowing there is no prospect of changing it, and philosophically make the best of it. Corn-bread and black-eyed peas are a feast if one isn't longing for caviar.

Isn't their youth alone that makes kids light-hearted. They are not yet gnawed by ambition, or resentfully scorning their environment and longing to "be somebody."

Climbing is a fine thing if one can do it gaily, without sacrificing more than the gain is worth. The tragedy of it is that false assurances and false promises of value keep us straining to reach the impossible and thus losing the equal good within reach.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

Now, Comes The Rush Of Propaganda for the sources of Sudeten Czechoslovakia until at least October 1, we may expect the rush of German propaganda! And, for that matter, propaganda will be the most diligent workers. We may expect a perfect deluge of Czechoslovakian "outrages," all reported in detail by the propaganda sources. There will be fair maidens mistreated, villages raided and the inhabitants murdered. The Germans must prove between now and October 1 just how very awful are the Czechs. The propaganda mills will be turning out their atrocity stories at full speed.

I have never believed Hitler really wanted to fight. I don't think he wants now to fight. The trouble with the dictator countries is they can't go back. They keep their people informed only on one subject. "They are able to build up more national fervor than a nation which is allowed to read and listen and talk. They keep giving the people 'victories' and there is no way in which they can back down. The people might discover the dictators, after all, were not gods."

They are much in the situation the King found himself in one of Hans Christian Andersen's stories. There came to this king sellers of raiment. They told him of a cloth which was so fine and beautiful no other king in the world had ever seen the like. He asked to see it. They went through the motions of unrolling the cloth. They spread it before him. He was troubled, but not wishing to admit his kingly eyes did not see it, pretended to praise it. The courtiers were summoned. They did not wish to displease the king so, they too, praised the beauty of the cloth. For days the tailors sat and sewed on invisible cloth. At last the suit was ready. They stripped the king and clothed him in his new raiment. They sat him on the horse, admiring greatly the suit.

"Why, He Hasn't Got On Any Clothes!" All the people had been notified. They lined the streets. The king, mounted on his horse, rode through the streets. The people did not want to incur the wrath of the king. They, too, kept quiet.

At last he came to a crowded corner. Everyone was very silent. But a little girl was looking on and she said in a voice which was loud in the startled silence: "Why, he hasn't got on any clothes."

All the invisible and built-up grandeur toppled about him. He was just a naked king, shamed before his people.

The dictator remind me of that. They have clothed themselves in much glory that is fantastic and invisible. There may come a day

Totalitarian Efficiency

Costs Too Much to attain efficiency which the totalitarian states attain, is not worth the price they pay.

They sacrifice too much to attain efficiency. Admittedly, a democracy is not as efficient in war or administration. Yet, the democratic philosophy of government as opposed to the totalitarian philosophy seems to have everything the latter lacks.

There are those who argue that we, as a democracy, have more material riches than any other nation and yet get too little with it. That accusation has some foundation.

Democracies move slowly because they are actuated by the people themselves and not by one man who says, "Do" and see it immediately done.

In the past 10 years, due largely to the vision and the force of Franklin D. Roosevelt, we have made great progress. That progress in behalf of the people will not be lost. No effort, if there should be one, could remove it. The gains will be consolidated. Then, later, will come others.

That is better. Germany once had more social legislation than any other nation. The mere fact a nation has social legislation does not mean it has solved the problem of the people.

A democracy may be slower. Yet, under a democracy the people never lose what they once attain. Democracy is a process, a growing, a philosophy.

The price of totalitarian efficiency is too high.

CITY NEEDS MONEY FOR WINTER RELIEF, OFFICIAL ASSERTS

Director Huck Declares No Cash on Hand To Buy Fuel for Destitute.

Last week's cold snap showed what the Board of Public Welfare will be faced with during the coming winter and made it clear that additional funds are urgently needed, William Huck, director of the board, declared yesterday.

Asserting that there has been "no improvement" in the relief situation in recent days, Mr. Huck said there was every indication that it will grow steadily worse during the next few months.

"It was not cold enough last week to cause any real suffering," Mr. Huck said, "but it demonstrated the situation which must be met when really cold weather gets under way."

Not Enough Money.

"As the situation now stands, we do not have enough money to furnish any coal or other fuel, and plenty of it will be needed before the winter is over. This means we will require more money and require it badly."

"We are doing the best we can under the circumstances, but the truth is we are not able to give proper care to those families already on the rolls. It is inevitable that the rolls will be increased. Without additional funds, scores of families are going to be left in desperate straits."

Mr. Huck said that $10,000 was being sought from the county to finish the current month. This will "help immensely" although it will still leave the board far short of its requirements, he was certain.

Previously the board estimated that $10,000 additional also would be needed for October with $15,000 each for November and December. The estimated increase for next year was placed at $130,000.

TEACHER STRICKEN AT SUNDAY SCHOOL

A. S. Bussey, Tifton, Dies While Instructing Class.

TIFTON, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A. S. Bussey, assistant state 4-H club agent, died unexpectedly at his home here today. Bussey was stricken while teaching a Sunday school class and succumbed about an hour later.

Funeral plans had not been completed late today but services probably will be in Athens Monday afternoon.

Survivors include his wife, a young son, and two sisters, Miss Lyla Bussey, of Tifton, and Mrs. L. W. Cunningham, of Columbus, Georgia.

POOR DIGESTION? Run Down? Underweight? Irritable? No Appetite?

These symptoms may be Nature's warning of Vitamin D deficiency. Try the new irradiated yeast tablets with high Vitamin D strength.

Today many doctors, knowing that often the average every-day diets do not provide sufficient vitamin D, now recommend irradiated yeast tablets as a food supplement to combat ailments caused by lack of three essential elements.

Ray-D Tablets are made by an exclusive process which irradiates yeast's food yeast (richest known food source of Vitamin B and C) to add the precious sunshine Vitamin D.

Thus, each Ray-D Yeast Tablet gives health-building Vitamins B and C, plus a high unit of Vitamin D—equal to 1 1/2 TEASPOONSFUL OF COD LIVER OIL. Thus Ray-D (the only irradiated yeast's food yeast tablet containing Vitamin D) cannot be confused with ordinary yeast products.

Pleasant tasting, they furnish you this essential combination of Vitamins D, B and C in most convenient and inexpensive form. Guarantee of 100% satisfaction or MONEY BACK. If you are run-down, underweight, irritable, constipated—if poor digestion or no appetite due to a lack of these vitamins—ask your druggist today for Ray-D Yeast Tablets.

Impending Conflict Is Grim Theme Expounded From Atlanta Pulpits

the leveling-up of society or be leveled down by it.

"In the last analysis, the antidote for war is a genuine belief in the fatherland of God. In this concept is rooted the true brotherhood of all men everywhere."

"Today, the ideology of the materialistic state challenges the supremacy of the ideology of Christianity."

Dean Raimundo de Ovies, of the Cathedral of St. Philip, spoke indirectly of world affairs in a morning service for children. His sermon was entitled "Seek First the Kingdom of God and His Righteousness."

Dean de Ovies began by pointing out that in the long history of humanity, "peoples have always desired peace and prosperity."

Conquerors Arise.

"Yet there always arose," he said, "some one who had a plan for conquering the world and getting everything under one hand, and in this way eliminating cause for warfare."

"There was Alexander, who tried it, and almost succeeded. But he was not the conqueror of the world. There was Napoleon, who tried it, and almost succeeded. But he was not the conqueror of the world. There was Hitler, who tried it, and almost succeeded. But he was not the conqueror of the world."

Dean de Ovies then called attention to the fact that some one plan would bring control of the world and therefore peace. He emphasized the fact that all these persons looked as though they were about to succeed, but never quite made it.

Dean de Ovies then spoke of the "futility of trying to conquer the world by force."

Like Boys in Schoolyard.

"Boys try that in the schoolyard," he went on, "and for a time seem to be top dog. But there's always another chance that licks the present holder of the title."

"Getting along in the schoolyard is based on making a contribution, instead of trying to be top dog. The boy who can pitch or catch well, or who is a good outfielder or infielder, doesn't have to fight for anything. The others are only too anxious and eager to use him."

"Jesus had the secret of peace when he said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' He alone has the only plan for peace that will work, and when men at last turn to His teachings, nations will get along peacefully with each other."

Following this sermon, the mother of a 9-year-old girl told Dean de Ovies that her daughter had said to her: "Mama, the sure did give it to Hitler!" When the mother told the child that the dean had never even mentioned the German leader, the youngster replied: "Yes, he did, too, when he was talking about people trying to be top dog."

Rev. John Moore Walker, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, pointed out in his sermon on "Wisdom" that true wisdom is the result of experience and loyalty to principles, and that nations today are faced with much the same problem. Prayers for peace were spoken in the church.

Dr. John L. Yost, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, talked on "The Search for Security," and drew a general parallel between this search and the world situation, declaring "there is no possibility of security without the Christian church."

In a special peace prayer, Dr. Ryland Knight, pastor of Second-Fence de Leon, Baptist church, said that "We should learn that the way of hate, bitterness and war is not the way to happiness and that the only way to peace, happiness and mutual thankfulness is through Jesus Christ."

Dr. Turner Prays.

In his service yesterday morning at the Covenant Presbyterian church, Dr. Herman L. Turner uttered a prayer that the world "seek a kingdom of righteousness rather than one of the trumpet, the banner and the might of man."

"Out of the turmoil," he prayed, "bring forth something of deliverance, oh Lord. Unstop the ears of the nations and may they hear the witness of the centuries as they tell us that righteousness, not the sword, is the fruit of the vision of God."

The Rev. James L. Baggett, pastor of the College Park Baptist church, prayed before his congregation that the "world be spared a bloody holocaust" as a result of the demand of Hitler for more territory.

"Hitler and Mussolini would do well today to consider Christ," the Rev. Samuel A. Cowan, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, said in a sermon at his church.

Rev. H. E. Russell, minister of Rock Spring Presbyterian church, touched indirectly on the European situation when he prayed that the "Prince of Peace might rule in the hearts of those who govern men."

Pedestrians Bump Into Each Other As Army Darkens Prague Streets

PRAGUE, Sept. 25.—(AP)—(Via RCA Communications)—Czechoslovakia's capital tonight was the darkest in Europe—blacked out against any foreign air raid.

Street cars crawled along with a faint blue glimmer replacing the usual daylight. Within dozens of the capital's old houses there were no lights at all.

Blue lanterns stood at some downtown street corners.

It was said that these feeble blue lights could not be seen from an altitude of a few hundred meters, so any aviators making an unwelcome call on Prague tonight might waste much of their time blundering over the Bohemian countryside.

Despite the darkness many people were abroad. In the streets pedestrians bumped into one another, but there was no complaining.

Prague had an American refugee problem.

A group of 44 American citizens, fearful of crossing the frontier at Eger into Germany, returned to Prague. They had heard reports they would be placed in German concentration camps.

These Americans did something typically American on the way back; they held a meeting and elected officers.

They called themselves the American Refugee Group and named Milton Shuffro, Chicago, president.

State Representative H. L. Lanham, of Rome, will represent Governor Rivers and the State of Georgia at the national conference of governors in Oklahoma City, it was revealed last night.

Governor Rivers said press of other duties prevented him from attending, and that he had delegated Lanham because he is a "student of taxation and familiar with the problem of uniform tax laws between states."

Lanham represents Floyd county in the legislature, and served last session as chairman of the joint legislative tax committee. Overlapping problems of state and federal governments will be one of the principal topics discussed at the conference.

The conference was called by Governor E. W. Marland, of Oklahoma, and nine governors have accepted invitations. The first session will be held today in Oklahoma City, and then move to Tulsa for two more days.

Lanham left Saturday night for Oklahoma City.

MILLIONS IN MONEY IN FLOOD AREA MOVED

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Millions in silver and currency moved tonight out of Rhode Island's flood area—for safekeeping.

Transported overland from Providence, R. I., to Boston in seven armored cars was $31,000,000, including seven tons of silver and the remainder in silver currency.

FIREMEN OVERCOME

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Four firemen were overcome by smoke and another was injured when fire of undetermined origin swept through the dry kilns of a hardwood flooring plant here today. Unofficial damage estimates ranged as high as $100,000.

its own claims for 1940 consideration for the victor.

Here and there, as in Pennsylvania, a Republican primary victory for governor raised a question of 1940 availability. But it is in New York this week that a Republican nomination for governor touches most closely the first fringes of the 1940 presidential race and is the key to a countering Democratic strategy problem unlikely to be solved until the Republicans act.

Aside from the party nominees pictured on the nation-wide composite of the tickets for November, relatively few others have been given important consideration as yet for 1940 presidential party honors. Exclude the Roosevelt third-term talk, sporadic revivals of Mr. Hoover's name, Mayor LaGuardia of New York, Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, John L. Lewis, of the CIO, the Garner boom in Texas and Mississippi's bid for Senator Pat Harrison, and virtually all others who have been mentioned for 1940 honors appear on the 1938 election chart, or will be there this week.

Tremendous Importance.

What happens in New York this week and in November is of tremendous political importance. New York has displaced in modern times both Virginia and Ohio as the incubator of presidential booms. Its governors and former governors have ascended high for White House honors with both parties because of the 47 electoral votes the state casts. The year 1940 bids fair to be no exception.

DUCE THREATENS 'MILITARY' STEPS

Indirectly Warns France and Great Britain They Must Cease Mobilizing.

VICENZA, Italy, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini threatened today to take military measures if other nations do not cease mobilizing men and warships.

Mussolini spoke briefly, still holding hope that at least a general war might be averted. The crowd he addressed had massed to cheer him on his tour of regions along Italy's German frontier.

It was his seventh brief talk since he reaffirmed the strength of the Rome-Berlin axis and declared last Sunday at Trieste that Italy's place "is already chosen."

"Up to now Italy has not taken the slightest measure of a military character," Il Duce said. "But if others continue to recall reservists and mass on frontiers, and if others are concentrating the fleets, it is clear—and none of you will be astonished—that Italy also will take measures."

The premier disclosed he would speak again tomorrow morning at Verona.

Mussolini did not mention by name either France or Great Britain, both of which have taken emergency precautions, but it was believed his declaration was directed at them.

the schoolhouse.

The alarm was given by young Willis, who ran screaming for several hundred yards from the schoolhouse to the nearest residence. He aroused the household and they found the man in horrible condition, clothes burned entirely away from his body. Before being rushed to a local hospital he told them that his companion, James Wright, was trapped in the burning building and that both had been trying to put out the fire.

The fire was too far under way when the would-be rescuers arrived for anything to be done to save the victim and it was not until several hours later that the charred remains of James Wright could be removed.

A coroner's jury, empaneled by Coroner B. H. Leonard, recessed until tomorrow morning without rendering a verdict after hearing available evidence.

Miss Anne Brunby, county school superintendent, placed the loss at approximately $18,000 and stated that it was only partially covered by insurance. The Antioch school, the county's first consolidated school, was a modern brick structure, eight classrooms and had an enrollment of approximately 350 pupils. A large gymnasium and other buildings on the school property were not damaged.

ENGAGEMENT RING TAKEN BY BURGLAR

Mrs. Isadore Heiman Loses Gem Valued at $1,450.

A diamond ring valued at $1,450 was stolen from a bedroom of the bungalow of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Heiman at 916 Rosedale road, N. E., while the couple were in another part of the house early last night.

Heiman told police his wife had placed the ring on a dresser in the bedroom, and then both went into the kitchen. He said the burglar probably entered through a window. Neither Heiman nor his wife heard noise, however.

The ring was given to Mrs. Heiman 20 years ago when the couple became engaged. The stone was described as weighing two karats, the setting of platinum, with 22 small diamonds set around the larger stone. Heiman is an executive of an Atlanta provision company.

Chinese dispatches from Hong Kong reported that colonial volunteers there were mobilized Sunday and added that a censorship had been put in force in the British colony.

Meantime, German residents were moving out of the Anglo-American areas of the International Settlement here into the Japanese areas. German officials described the removals as not the result of official advice.

One report at 11:30 a. m. was that the British Durham regiment would follow the Seaford Highlanders to Hong Kong within 48 hours leaving the big British community here "practically undefended." If this happens, it was said, the fourth regiment of the United States marine corps would take over the present British defense sectors of the Settlement in addition to its own defense sector.

BRITAIN MOBILIZES AT HONG KONG BASE

U. S. Marines May Take Over English Shanghai Settlement Defenses.

SHANGHAI (Monday), Sept. 26.—(UP)—The British Seaford Highlanders regiment, which has been on duty in the British defense sector of the International Settlement since early in the Chinese-Japanese war, was ordered to Hong Kong today "on four hours' notice."

The move was believed part of a British plan to remove the bulk of British forces in China to the Hong Kong crown colony so they will not be in danger of being surrounded by superior Japanese forces in event Japan enters a general war on Germany's side.

The official explanation was that the sudden move "was connected with heretofore unannounced maneuvers to be held in Hong Kong."

Troops Mobilized.

Reliable informants said that six additional army battalions, including a battalion now in the British concession in Tientsin, North China, are being sent to Hong Kong to reinforce the regular British garrison in the South China colony.

The Seaford Highlanders began boarding transports here at 10 a. m.

Informants said that about four battalions were being sent to Hong Kong from Singapore.

The Durham's regiment will remain in Shanghai "for the moment."

All larger British warships in China waters have been concentrated in Hong Kong where entrance to the harbor reportedly is being mined.

H. M. S. Birmingham was diverted here especially to take on the Seaford Highlanders.

WINSHIP MAY QUIT PUERTO RICAN POST

Rumors Circulated He'll Become Commissioner of Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Persistent reports that Governor Blanton Winship, of Puerto Rico, will resign to become high commissioner of the Philippines circulated here tonight despite official denials.

Winship, who served in the Far Eastern archipelago as a member of General Leonard Wood's famous "Cavalry Cabinet" has clashed frequently with high administration officials, including Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, his immediate superior.

Reports are that Winship has been chosen for the Philippines post because it is of the "ambassadorial type" and thus affords no direct administration such as prevails in Puerto Rico.

Last week Ickes inferred that Winship, who is in Washington on official business, had revealed details of a confidential communication. Subsequent reports from San Juan, capital of Puerto Rico, said that the governor intended to have a "show down" with Ickes. Winship insisted, however, that he has no thought of raising issues with his superiors.

Ickes said that he has no knowledge of an impending vacancy in San Juan although it was reported that Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of North Carolina University, and former Congressman Maury Maverick, of Texas, are being considered for the post.

THOMAS ELLIOTT DIES IN 78TH YEAR

Pneumonia Is Fatal to Former Atlantan and Industrial Leader.

Thomas Elliott, 77, one-time chief engineer of the old Consolidated Street Railway Company in Atlanta and widely known in industrial circles throughout the nation, died Saturday night of pneumonia in a hospital in Cleveland, Ohio.

He was the retired president of the Cincinnati Car Company and of the Continental Gin Company in Birmingham, Ala.

The first job Mr. Elliott held in the United States, after coming to this country from England, was that of a hoister in a coal mine in Pennsylvania. Several years later he became chief engineer of the coal company.

He was chief engineer of a cotton mill in Knoxville, Tenn., in 1883, when he came to Atlanta as chief engineer of the street railway company. He supervised building of some of the first electrically powered street cars in Atlanta.

In 1902 he became chief engineer of the Cincinnati Traction Company. When the nation entered the World War, he was one of the men in charge of building submarines and won nationwide acclaim for the manner in which he handled his work.

He returned to Cincinnati after the war and became president of the car company, which manufactured street cars and subway trains for many principal cities. Later, he aided in forming the Continental Gin Company, of Birmingham, Ala., and was president of that company until he retired in 1931.

Since retiring from active work, he had visited in Atlanta many times and had a wide circle of friends here. He had resided in Daytona Beach, Fla., much of the time during the last two years, but maintained his residence in Nevada.

The body will be brought to Atlanta this morning and funeral services will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Surviving are his wife and two sons, Ernest and Howard Elliott.

Mother's Anxiety Over Child Calls Cutter 150 Miles

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 25.—(AP) A mother's anxiety for her ill two-year-old daughter sent a coast guard cutter steaming 150 miles to sea today and momentarily interrupted the voyages of two passenger vessels on pleasure cruises.

A wireless informed the master of the Pan American, out of New York for Rio de Janeiro, that the daughter of a Mrs. Craft, one of his passengers but otherwise unidentified, had become ill at home shortly after the vessel had put to sea.

The Pan American asked the coast guard to send a vessel to take off the mother.

The cutter Dione set out from here last midnight and was 150 miles at sea when it learned later arrangements had been made by which Mrs. Craft and a companion were transferred from the Pan American 450 miles east of Cape Hatteras to the liner Queen of Bermuda, bound into New York. The cutter turned back.

Trains for many principal cities. Later, he aided in forming the Continental Gin Company, of Birmingham, Ala., and was president of that company until he retired in 1931.

Since retiring from active work, he had visited in Atlanta many times and had a wide circle of friends here. He had resided in Daytona Beach, Fla., much of the time during the last two years, but maintained his residence in Nevada.

The body will be brought to Atlanta this morning and funeral services will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Surviving are his wife and two sons, Ernest and Howard Elliott.

MRS. WILLIAM GANN DIES AT AGE OF 82

Was Member of Pioneer Women's Society and Baptist Church.

Mrs. William Gann, 82, lifelong resident of Atlanta, died late Saturday night at her home, 1565 Gordon street, S. W., after a brief illness.

The former Miss Alice Harris, Mrs. Gann was the daughter of the late William Clinton Harris, pioneer Atlanta citizen. She was a member of the Pioneer Women's Society. A member of the Baptist church for more than 75 years, she was an active worker in the Tabernacle Baptist church until several years ago.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Ruby G. Fain and Miss Laura Lee Gann; two granddaughters, Mrs. H. L. McKibben and Mrs. A. L. Fain, and three great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the residence by the Rev. J. W. Ham, Dr. W. H. Faust and the Rev. Thomas F. Harvey. Burial will be in West View cemetery, under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

TRADE GROUPS ASKED TO GIVE PROBE DATA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP) The Commerce Department mailed a 13-page questionnaire to 2,300 trade associations tonight to gather information for the current monopoly investigation.

The associations were asked to disclose the size and nature of their memberships, the source of income, their relations with governmental agencies, their activity on labor questions, and numerous other details.

Atlanta Boys' Club Goes 'Formal' With Big 'Open House' Thursday

Invitation Extended to All Interested Persons To Attend Opening, Observe Activities and Tour the Premises.

The Atlanta Boys' Club will be opened formally Thursday with an "open house" between 4 and 8 o'clock at the headquarters, 314 Washington street.

W. W. Woolfolk, executive director of the club, announced Saturday all interested Atlantans are invited to attend the opening which will feature an exhibit of the boys' activities, a tour of the building and a musical program.

Started last July, plans for formation of the club have been completed through the efforts of civic clubs with the Kiwanis and the Rotary taking leading parts.

A co-operative support of the Boys' Club is now carried on by the following organizations, in addition to the Kiwanis and Rotary, Lions, Civitan, Optimist, Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the American Business Club, each having representatives on the board of directors.

In addition to Mr. Woolfolk, the club has three full-time assistants and several serving part time.

Each Saturday night, the boys— from 8 to 18 years—stage a program of their own planning. Officials said these regular week-end features will continue after the formal opening. There are now 310 members of the club.

Acting as hosts at the formal opening will be members of the executive board, including Henry C. Heinz, Hal F. Hentz, Ernest R. Holtz, Jesse Draper, Morgan Blue, John S. Bill, E. L. Bugg, R. J. Gunn, Eugene Gunby, I. Gloer Hailey, William A. Horne Jr., Thomas C. Law, David Marx, Al Matthews, A. R. Mouricourt, N. S. Noble, Herbert Porter, David O. Price, Ernest L. Pugmire, W. J. Sayward, J. W. Setze Jr., Richard Stretton, Willis A. Sutton, J. G. Shankle, Marvin E. Underwood, Garland M. Watkins, Jere A. Wells and Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright, Mrs. Donald McClain and Mrs. Alonzo Richardson.

At the Sears home yesterday, Mrs. Cunningham told of losing and regaining the locket.

"At the time I lost it, I looked high and low in the house for it, then decided it was just gone. I was overjoyed when Mr. Sears described the locket to me. Besides the picture of my eldest son, who is now 20, there was a picture of my other boy, Jimmie, now 10, and photographs of my husband and myself.

"There was also small bits of the boys' hair, when they were babies. Things like these mean a lot to a mother."

A week ago, the Easons and Cunningham were strangers. Now, they are friends.

WAR PROPAGANDA DUE SOON, SAYS DIES

Cheering news of a fast return to normalcy came from New Hampshire. State highway officials, who estimated damage to their roads at $1,800,000, reported the main route through Crawford Notch, in the White mountains, was open to "light traffic."

At the same time, numerous other roads throughout the state were cleared for automobiles.

Authorities in Connecticut watched the swollen Connecticut river slowly recede and expressed the belief all flood danger in that state was over. There was no serious effect from the bursting of a dam yesterday at Danielson.

LUMPKIN OFFICIALS WILL LEVY NO TAXES

DAHLONEGA, Ga., Sept. 25.—Lumpkin county commissioners have announced for the third year in succession that they will collect no county taxes.

Commissioners recently completed the erection of a steel bridge more than 100 feet long across the Chestatee, eight miles south of Dahlonega, and they are making the middle Dahlonega-Gainesville road an 18-foot road-bed finished with chert. When completed the road will put Dahlonega and Gainesville only 22 miles apart.

It is understood that Hall county will improve this road from the Lumpkin line to Murrayville.

HOPKINS INSPECTS HURRICANE AREAS

Red Cross Checks Reports and Rushes Help to Storm Needy.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Attacking their monumental "mopping-up" task with fresh vigor, relief agencies throughout New England tonight made a new survey of damage wrought by this section's first hurricane and tidal wave.

Leading a party of Works Progress Administration officials was Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, who inspected the damaged areas preparatory to a relief conference here tomorrow. At the same time, the Red Cross checked its reports and rushed help to the needy.

"From what I've seen today, I would say the situation is very bad," Hopkins told newsmen when he landed here. He added that the administration in Washington was ready to do everything in its power to alleviate suffering.

The death toll from Wednesday's storm mounted slightly—the toll of identified bodies going over 420. Two additional bodies were reported from Vermont, bringing that windswept state's total to five.

A man's body was found at Newport, bringing Rhode Island's toll to 213 and three bodies were found in Massachusetts to make the state's total 130. Connecticut had 67 and New Hampshire 10 dead.

The total number of dead was expected to reach 500 or more with additional bodies being found periodically as workers dug through the debris. Many were still missing in Massachusetts and Rhode Island and in the absence of an official report, it was impossible to ascertain a definite number of dead.

Loss Estimated.

Authorities in four stricken states estimated their loss at nearly $200,000,000.

Governor Robert E. Quinn, of Rhode Island, has placed its state's damage at $100,000,000. Officials said New Hampshire lost at least $20,000,000. A Massachusetts farmers' official said their loss would be $10,000,000 and some Connecticut residents said their state's damage would be at least $5,000,000.

Bans on sightseers kept the devastated areas clear for thousands of relief workers in Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Massachusetts. National guards were vigilant against looting in the Cape Cod area.

Cheering News.

Cheering news of a fast return to normalcy came from New Hampshire. State highway officials, who estimated damage to their roads at $1,800,000, reported the main route through Crawford Notch, in the White mountains, was open to "light traffic."

DON'T LET YOUR NERVES GET TIRED, UPSET!

Irish Setter

Native of Ireland. First imported to America about 1875. Believed to be a cross of English setter, spaniel and pointer. Originally red and white in coloring. Today's standards call for solid mahogany red or rich golden chestnut. Essentially a gun dog. Bold, hardy, yet remarkably gentle nature. Noted for long life.

He's giving his nerves a rest...and so is she

THE DOG pictured above is relaxing—resting his nerves. He has a nervous system amazingly similar to yours, with this difference: It is the nature of the dog to rest when he needs rest. It is the nature of mankind to drive on until nerves jerk and twitch...until you are cross and irritable...tired out without knowing it. No matter which form of tenseness you feel, try this experiment: Ease up and enjoy a Camel. The enjoyment of Camels can be your frequent reminder to take time out. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are so mild and comforting. Smokers find that "Let up—light up a Camel" puts more zest into life, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos soothe their nerves.

MILLIONS FIND

"Let up—light up a Camel" puts more joy into living

Terrell Jacobs, lion trainer, and "Tony" Concello, circus aerialist (right), both "Let up—light up a Camel." "Animals can spring into action—then relax," says Jacobs. "We are different—apt to get our nerves all wound up with our tense way of living—can't let go. I find that Camels soothe my nerves." "Terrell's right," Miss Concello says. "When my nerves are tired, a Camel helps them to rest."

DID YOU KNOW?

—that one tablespoon of tobacco seed will sow 100 yds? One hundred sq. yds. of bed give from 10,000 to 15,000 plants for transplanting into the fields.

From the selection of the seed, right down to the day of harvest, Camel tobacco experts watch the development of the crop in each locality. The Camel cigarette buyers know where the mild, choice, aromatic tobacco is. And they buy accordingly.

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOES—Turkish and Domestic

Fred L. McDaniel, cowboy (right), says: "When I feel nervously upset, I let up, and light up a soothing Camel. Camels are mild—I can smoke 'em steadily. They are so comforting, and never tire my taste."

WALKER IS INSTALLING KOLSTOKERS IN HANDSOME HOMES

WALKER ROOFING COMPANY HANDLE EXCLUSIVE LINE

Anchor Kolstokers To Fit Any Building; Also Busy on Roofing Work.

Many owners of beautiful homes on the north side, as well as other residences scattered over the city, are finding it to their advantage and a matter of splendid economy to have Anchor Kolstokers installed, now that the winter season is fast approaching.

Among other large homes in the city, the Charles N. Walker Roofing Company has just completed the installation of this type of stoker in the home of Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, on West Pace's Ferry road. The Walker company is state distributor for the Anchor Kolstokers, and with its force of expert mechanical men are constantly on the move installing these automatic and economical stokers in residences, apartments, commercial buildings, hotels, school buildings and other structures.

In fact, in the Anchor line are 22 styles and sizes—one to fit any size building. Here are some of the outstanding features of Anchor Kolstokers:

Hydraulic Oil Motor Drive: All moving parts operate in an enclosed bath of oil—assures quiet operation—guarantees long life free from service expense.

Automatic Air Control: Automatically regulated amount of air fed to the fire—assures a clean burning fire at all times.

All-Welded Hopper: Completely sealed hopper and hopper door eliminate all possible escape of hopper gases.

Noiseless Operation: Motor is cushioned in rubber to prevent noise and vibration and radio disturbances.

It is the claim of the manufacturers and the claim is assured by Mr. Walker—that a Kolstoker gives to homes a healthful, more uniform, clean heat day and night. It rids the family forever of drudgery of hand firing; it gives fingertip control of the heating plant, and eliminates ashes, smoke, soot and muss.

"And what's more," said Mr. Walker, "property owners get these many advantages at a saving, because Kolstokers burn small-sized coal scientifically."

Anchor Kolstokers can be installed in any type of heating plant, old or new, and Mr. Walker invites full investigation through his company. There will be no obligation.

Expert Roofing Force. The Charles N. Walker Roofing Company does many other needed and desirable things besides the proper heating of your home. Just now, with a force of expert roofing men, the company is "topping" many structures throughout the city. Two of the company's latest jobs was the roofing of the new

J. I. Case Company building, on Stewart avenue, and the covering of the new building erected for the Southeastern Stages, at the corner of Piedmont avenue and Pine street.

As roofers, the Walker company is classed among the oldest concerns of its kind in the entire southeast. It handles the line of Kopper Bonded roofing and also the Amco Bonded roofing. It might be stated, that both in its stoker installation and roofing work they can be handled through the FHA, making it most convenient and easy to take care of the expense.

Given an opportunity to estimate for those needing a new or repaired roof, the company declares it cannot only do an economical job, but one that will give entire satisfaction.

GOOD-WILL TOUR TO VISIT 3 PAPERS

St. Petersburg Group's Arrival Set for Tuesday.

The St. Petersburg Sixth Annual Good-Will Tour, headed by William A. Kennair, will visit the three Atlanta newspapers upon their arrival in Atlanta tomorrow, Faber A. Bollinger, executive vice president of the Atlanta Convention and Visitors' Bureau, announced yesterday.

After a tour of The Constitution the party will go to the city hall at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning for a visit with Mayor Hartsfield. Several Atlanta businessmen will greet the visitors at the mayor's office.

RELIEF COSTS UP. WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(UP) August direct relief costs rose 1 per cent from July, the Social Security Board reported tonight, while the number of recipients declined 1 per cent.

AUTO TIRE'S LIFE IS NOW DOUBLED

Gordy Tire Company Sell Tires With Heat Resistant Cord.

A new principle in processing cotton for tire fabric which promises to double the life of automobile tires has been developed by the Bibb Manufacturing Company, of Macon. This type of tire cord is used by the Dayton Rubber Manufacturing Company in the manufacture of McClaren tires, handled locally by the Gordy Tire Company.

Numerous editorials have recently appeared in the south's leading newspapers, hailing this discovery, as the south's cotton producers were being threatened by the use of rayon and other synthetic materials in the manufacture of tire cord.

H. I. Gordy, proprietor of the Gordy Tire Company, is extremely enthusiastic about this new development. "It is fortunate for the southern cotton farmers and the textile plant," Mr. Gordy explained, "that this discovery of new principle in processing cotton has been developed with only a very nominal increase in cost, so that the consumption of cotton in automobile tires will not only continue, but will increase, for no material that we know of today can substitute for this new heat resistant type of genuine cotton in tires. We believe that nothing that is not technically correct can live, and a higher price of a substitute is not in itself an indication of superiority. In other words, the public is entitled to and will get sooner or later dollar for dollar."

The Dayton Rubber Manufacturing Company has co-operated with and assisted the producers of this new cord in the development of it, and are now using it in the manufacture of all of their first-line passenger car tires and in all of their truck tires. The answer to the constantly voiced prayer of the truck and bus operator for tires that will resist heat has long been waited for and many testimonials indicate that this new discovery is the answer.

Weather Strips Will Keep Out The Cold

Now that the cold weather is fast approaching, how about the cracks around windows and other places where the cold winds seep through?

There is no need to suffer from a cold breeze of this kind. Weather-stripping will give you the protection you need.

A telephone call to the Atlanta Cabinet Shop, at 591 Edgewood avenue, will bring you a competent workman to estimate your job for you, and if granted the work will give you a job that the shop will guarantee to be just as good as can be done.

For 10 years this concern has been one of the recognized substantial concerns that builds and installs window and door screens, built-in shelves, office fixtures, truck bodies, etc., and makes homes and offices more comfortable for the winter by weather-stripping work.

J. G. Street is president, and B. M. Street, secretary of this well-known concern. They do all manner of screen work for your doors, windows, and porches. Give them a phone ring when you are in need of work of this kind.

Regardless of Age or Physical Condition, Needs of Women Can Be Satisfied.

Girls! Do you feel that spare tire forming around the waistline? Do you bulge where you shouldn't? Are you tired and peppy at the end of the day? Then listen to the story of Rosendahl's!

"Tailor-made to her order, designed in every detail to fit her requirements, the fine service at Rosendahl's in the Chamber of Commerce building satisfies every woman's need. No matter what her age or physical condition, she finds here exactly what she wants," says Mr. Rosendahl. "If she is interested in reducing, as many members are, she can do this in a variety of forms."

"One popular form is active exercise, individually designed and under careful supervision. If she is an older or less active woman she would use the many reducing machines, where with little expenditure of energy she could reduce generally or in spots."

It is the claim of Rosendahl that women in their 20's, 30's, 40's, 50's or 60's—hale and hearty women—women with strong constitutions or delicate—stout women who are reducing or thin women who are building up; women in superb health and figure, who are determined to retain it, and women with unsatisfactory figures who are improving their condition—all find their differing needs satisfied. It is the business of Rosendahl's to give every individual exactly what she should have.

Available to members are ring rollers, chair rollers, beauty baths, electric horse, health walkers, mechanical bikes, rowing machines, wall pulleys, stall bars, sun lamps and reducing creams. These are but a few of the features. Every member of the staff of attendants is trained to service, skilled in methods by which women may reach and remain at the top-notch of figure beauty.

"Skilled masseuses massage each member's body into a glow after her exercise and bath and leave her feeling thoroughly relaxed," says Mr. Rosendahl. There is classwork or individual service, prices depending upon the type of service taken. It is possible to take a three-month course for as little as $15. Membership requirements provide for examination before

MAKING OLD HATS ALMOST LIKE NEW

That Is the Job of Roselle the Hatter, at 42 North Forsyth Street.

"Where Did You Get That Hat?" You remember the old song. Well, that's what many of your friends will ask you when you are sporting that old felt—after Roselle the Hatter has finished making it over for you, making it spic and span, and correctly shaped.

Many are the old felts that are now finding their way into Roselle's, at 42 North Forsyth street. Many of the old top pieces had been laid away, probably with no thought of ever resurrecting them. But as the felt hat season approaches, and as the matter of economy is one not to be overlooked, many wearers of what were once brand-new, stylish felts, are now dropping in to see Roselle and letting him—or one of his expert force—put it into practically a new hat for him.

Roselle caters to mail order business. Hardly a mail that does not bring in its quota of hats of various kinds to be overhauled and put back into useful and attractive service. Individual and wholesale customers know of Roselle's splendid and reliable work, and hats from all the southeast are to be found in the process of renovating at his place.

In the Roselle shop is the very latest hat-blocking unit, designed and perfected in the Roselle factory in Louisville, Ky., operated by the father of the Atlanta man. That is where Roselle the Hatter received his training—a training that has made him popular with the thousands throughout this section who wish has cleaning and bleaching done in the modern and the best way.

Eavesdropping Dietitian Hears Strangest Things About Reducing

Joan Bennett's figure is artfully sheathed in this dinner suit worn by the film star. The long, slim skirt is of white crepe, and the slip-on sweater of solid crystal beads has a high, round neck and short sleeves.

New Accessories, Sports Clothes Worn By Stars

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25.—Joan Bennett has a lovely figure and understands the art of clothing it to the best advantage. Her latest dinner suit has a long, slim skirt of white crepe and a slip-on sweater of solid crystal beads which has a high, round neck and short sleeves. Over this she wears a swaggar coat of crepe lavishly paneled in white fox. Silver kid and white satin sandals accompany the gown, for which Miss Bennett dresses her hair in the new formal ringlet arrangement.

Joy Hodges lunching at the Vendome in a black silk jersey frock, her looks topped with a rose-colored suede hat of the new wide halo variety. Gloves and bag matched the hat in color and fabric. At the high neckline of the gown, Joy wore a string of rose-pink quartz discs, setting off the somber tone of her dress.

Priscilla Lane is another in-dorser of suede and owns a detachable pair of pockets and matching belt which she calls "The Lucy Locket." Made of supple brown suede and closed with gold zippers, the square pockets are suspended by straps almost as wide as themselves and fastened to the dress, suit, or coat they adorn with little gold monogram pins. The "Lucy Locket" can be placed either above or below the belt and can be fastened by a variety of novelty pins.

Lupe Velez adorns many of her ensembles with feather accessories. For lapel or sports wear, the fiery Mexican actress uses feather animals. Two in particular—a giraffe and a kangaroo—are in exotic blendings of feathers with "pipe-cleaner" legs and heads. Her new feather flower bouquets are suitable for most any daytime costumes—one with feather leaves suggesting anemones, the other a graceful arrangement of natural color nasturtiums. One of Lupe's formal ostrich feather toques has a roll brim with a trailing plume down the side back. Also in Miss Velez's feather wardrobe is a bolero of marabou in the popular blue fox shade, with long, rather closely puffed sleeves.

Very new are the patent leather wine-colored shorts worn by Jane Bryan when playing badminton. Jane prefers patent leather for autumn sports clothes, and as a matter of record, patent leather is now almost as supple as suede and much easier to keep fresh—just wipe it with a damp cloth. Topping Jane's shorts are a matching bolero and white blouse.

Notes from Bette Davis' shoe wardrobe. Black oxfords, worn with a MacTavish plaid skirt, have toes of matching plaid. Self-fabric draped sandals accompany an evening gown of pale blue jersey. Navy gabardine pumps, cobbler-stitched in gray, match a navy town suit with similar stitched detail.

Mary Carlisle dining recently at the Trocadero in a coral orange shade dress of sheer wool. Her coat of tweed, lined with orange shear wool, was in a mixture of blue, orange and brown tweed blending. Her hat, also of tweed, matched the coat. Her bag, gloves and shoes in dark brown suede.

Lillian Mae's Ever-So-Chic Bolero

Here's a campus queen who rates highest honors in her fashion course—for this very new bolero-frock she has made is a Lillian Mae creation! That high neckline and "wasp-waist" effect are the answer to "What's different in dress styles this fall." The bolero of Pattern 4952 is equally smart, and may be long sleeved for brisk days, or short sleeved to show off dimpled elbows. (Matching or contrasting it will complement other frocks as well!) Pick a light-weight fall wool in bright blended colors. You'll stitch up your all-occasion triumph of a frock in no time, and be full of praise for the helpful Sewing Guide sheet of this pattern!

Pattern 4952 is available in junior and misses' sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 14, entire ensemble, takes 3 1/8 yards 54-inch fabric.

15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. White plainly size, name, address and style number.

Success to your autumn sewing! Order your copy of the new Lillian Mae Pattern Book today, and choose from the smartest of fall fashions. You'll see pictured the very clothes you need. Lovely street, afternoon and party fashions! Styles for the girl away at school, the business woman, the matron who longs to be slim! Sportswear "hits." Cheery house-dresses and youngster frocks! Fine lingerie! Gift ideas! News about accessories! All patterns so simple to make at home! Book 15 cents.

Balance Your Low Calory Diet

By Ida Jean Kain.

It is perfectly legitimate for a dietitian to eavesdrop when the conversation turns to dieting—especially at a luncheon where everyone is eating heartily! Here is what I overheard the other day at the official opening of the oyster season, held on Long Island:

First Reducer—"I took on 10 pounds this summer so now I am on the banana and skim milk diet. But I didn't want to miss this luncheon. Mmmmm... isn't this lobster delicious!"

Second Reducer—"Oh, yes! That's a good diet. I took off five pounds with it, but I got awfully tired of bananas. Besides, I gained it all back, and now I am trying lemon juice and honey before breakfast. Somebody told me that was good."

The third member of the trio believed in rolling—I eat and I roll," she explained. "But my husband says my trouble is that I eat more than I roll."

None of this talk about reducing, of course, detracted from anyone's enjoyment of the luncheon. Such conversation is so typical of the season that it might well have taken place at your bridge club. Maybe you yourself are on the verge of dieting. If you are on the lookout for something novel, the banana and skim milk diet will serve your purpose to a nicety. It is perfectly safe for you to follow this diet for a 10-day period—but it is monotonous.

Lemon juice and honey taken before breakfast are a good complexion tonic, but there is no magic in this draught—or any other—that will slim you down. It isn't what you take, it's what you don't take!

You can't beat rolling as a hip reducer, but you cannot lose weight by rolling if you continue to overeat. Rolling smooths out the bulges but it takes a diet to bring the weight down.

Now, just on the chance that you might be looking for a scientific method by which you can take off a certain number of pounds in a given number of days, there is the new "Twenty-One Day Diet" by which you can lose 10 pounds.

These menus are now available in leaflet form, and since the diet contains all the foods you need for health, it can be used over and over again.

Every now and then we hear about some grand new way of reducing—all you have to do is take so-and-so, and you lose all your fat." But the fact remains that the balanced low calorie diet is the only safe—and usually the only sure—way of losing weight. The diet may not sound very novel, but it is varied, and variety is the thing that keeps you on it.

21-DAY DIET:

Breakfast—	17th day	Calories.
Orange juice, 1-2 glass	50
Soft boiled egg	75
Toast, 1 slice	75
Butter, 1 pat, 1/4 inch thick	50
Coffee, clear	250
Luncheon—
Broiled hamburger on bun	200
with mustard	25
Coleslaw	80
Glass of buttermilk	305
Dinner—
Oysters, 4	32
Catsup	20
Baked potato	100
Butter, 1 pat, 1-4 inch thick	50
Cubed steak	200
Cupped vegetable salad	25
with vinegar, seasoning	427
Demi-tasse	982

Send for your copy of the "Twenty-One Day Diet" and, if you want to lose more weight, continue to follow the menus. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, care The Atlanta Constitution, and accompany it with a stamped return envelope.

Suppose You Didn't Go To College

"Unfri." thinks Jane, watching Eve and Don leaving for college. "They'll go places in life, but it's the same old run for me."

So Jane thinks! But anyone with spunk can have the qualities which give college people the breaks. Such qualities don't spring mysteriously from the walls of Harvard but from education—and you can educate yourself at home on a simple plan.

What distinguishes college people in a group? While others bore with dull talk of petty, everyday affairs, the college people talk interestingly of what's going on in the world.

Get on equal terms with them by consistently reading newspapers, magazines, following radio programs which present exciting questions of the day. Keep up with politics, new books, music.

You put yourself in the active-minded class, too, when you have an aim in life.

Resolve to know more than the average person about some one thing. A knowledge of fine furniture and fabrics may lead to a fascinating job in interior decorating. A department store stenographer who learned all she could about handkerchiefs attracted the atten-

Humanity Rises to Heights Only in Great Crises

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY.—Evidently Mr. Parish and I should have had a very disagreeable drive to Orange, New Jersey, Tuesday afternoon. We did have to make several detours and I was conscious of wind and rain and fallen trees, but I think Mr. Parish must have made a very entertaining companion, for it never occurred to me that we were doing anything very exciting. I was just driving in a high wind which gave my car a little shove now and then.

We had a very nice tea party yesterday afternoon at which I saw a good many acquaintances and friends whom I had not seen for a long while. Late in the afternoon Mrs. Everett Colby came in. She is doing a very interesting piece of work in a county position where she inspects institutions in the county. I understand that she has proved herself a very satisfactory public servant. It always interests me to find women doing good work in positions of this kind, which were formerly considered only suitable for men.

I read a most interesting short book by Thomas Mann the night before last, called "The Coming Victory of Democracy." When I finished it, I felt that I would give a great deal to be able to talk to him. I feel sure that he feels as I do, that the World War and its aftermath have made at permanent settlements really left us with the seeds of the present complicated international situation. Because it seems difficult to make humanity rise to certain heights except in crises, nothing very much has been done up to now to correct the injustices that are, I think, inevitable after any bitter conflict.

Now, too late perhaps, we are conscious of this need when the world is faced again with the alternative of using force and building the same bitterness that we built up before, or else of allowing those nations which believe exclusively in force, to have everything their own way. Thomas Mann seems to imply at times that force must be met with force, but that is what we have been doing from generation to generation. As we look back over history it seems as though there has always been one great controlling nation which really directed the rest of the world and allowed the others to have a certain amount of power. The controlling nation has shifted from time to time, and perhaps, at the moment we are watching another shift.

It is very difficult for me to think this situation through. If we decide again that force must be met with force, then it is the moral right for any group of people who believe that certain ideas must triumph to hold back from the conflict? Thomas Mann's book certainly does put certain questions before us in a way which stirs our consciences and makes American people feel the necessity of thinking through the fundamentals of their beliefs and policies. I spent the day in New York City and then drove back to Hyde Park in the late afternoon.

What About the Son Who Harbors "Mother-Fixation"?

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am a practical businessman who never expected to write a letter to a columnist. But I have found good sense in your opinions, and am asking you to give me your judgment on the most perplexing case I have ever known.

The man I am going to describe has been a near neighbor of mine a great many years, and the more I know of him the more puzzled am by the contradictions he presents. In many ways he is the nicest fellow I have ever met, and a professional man in late middle-age who has done a world of good for many people. It would be difficult not to like him if you tried. He seems to be a regular fellow until he begins to talk about his mother. If there is such a thing as a "mother-fixation," he has it.

The worst of it is that he has not been satisfied to sacrifice his life alone to his mother, and call it a noble work. He has exploited a number of perfectly normal women who live in different towns, carrying them along for years with some fine line of claim upon their affections and sympathy, but managing never to get caught too fast. He specializes in good-looking, intelligent and cultured women who ought to be home-makers and mothers, as well as happy wives to good men. I hope to know your opinion about such a fellow, and also your answers to the following questions:

(1) How much nobility is there in a man giving up, early in life, a natural sort of love life to take care of mama? (2) If a fellow is determined to make a life offering of himself, what do you consider the honorable relation for him to sustain to women of marriageable age? Does he have any right to make such claim upon either the time or attention or affection of any girl or woman who might desire to marry? (3) Do you think there is any chance to make a dent on a man who has been practicing this sort of thing for 40 years, or more, getting out always with his own skin whole? It would seem only fair to give a few women a break before it is too late to settle down with even a widower in a childless home.

PERPLEXED BUSINESSMAN.

Answer: Friend, I believe you will find the complete answer to all your questions in any modern textbook on abnormal psychology, with explanations and illustrations of the mother-son fixation from which your neighbor suffers. Yet while it's tion of executives, became an advertising writer.

But, whatever your specialty, you'll want to be familiar with general subjects college people study. Read great novels, outline books in history, the social sciences, philosophy—to have confidence with cultured people.

What to read? How to make the most of your chances? Get our 40-page booklet, "Suppose You Haven't Gone to College." Outlines simple plans requiring a few minutes a day—for cultural background.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, "SUPPOSE YOU HAVEN'T GONE TO COLLEGE, TO HOME INSTITUTE, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Epsom Salts For Local Use

By Dr. William Brady.

In recent years it has been found that the local application of warm solution of epsom salt—four ounces to the pint of water—on dressings of gauze or absorbent cotton gives relief in sprains and local inflammations. The same wet dressings of magnesium sulphate solution are grateful for burns of both first (reddening) and second degree (blistering). Physicians sometimes inject magnesium sulphate hypodermically, or into the vein, or into the spinal canal, for its sedative effect.

The thought of taking a dose of salts is repugnant to many. There is an alternative remedy which is not at all unpleasant to take, even for a child. It is in the U. S. P. as Liquor Magnesii Citratis, solution of magnesium citrate. This the druggist prepares and keeps cold in tightly stoppered twelve-ounce bottles. The liquid is effervescent and tastes like lemonade. A moderate dose as a laxative is one-half bottle. The whole bottle should be taken—if preferred in divided doses every 15 or 20 minutes—where active catharsis is desired. Solution of magnesium citrate is the answer to the salts problem of hypersensitive patients and children; it is acceptable to the stomach. It should be purchased, a bottle at a time, from the neighborhood drugstore, only as it is needed.

The third saline laxative or cathartic I recommend is Compound Effervescent Powder, U. S. P., commonly known as Seidlitz Powders. Seidlitz powders come in pairs—the blue paper contains sodium bicarbonate and Rochelle salt (potassium-sodium tartrate)—about two level teaspoonfuls of Rochelle salt; the white paper contains tartaric acid. Contents of blue paper should be dissolved in one-third glassful of water, and if desired a little orange or lemon syrup may be added; contents of white paper should be dissolved in another one-third glassful of water; then the two solutions mixed and taken before effervescence ceases. The colder the water the less the taste of the salts. One pair of Seidlitz powders is a moderate dose; sometimes a pair may be taken every three or four hours until free catharsis is induced. Seidlitz powders are more acceptable to the feverish or nauseated patient than ordinary salts.

Of the many saline laxative concoctions urged upon the public by their manufacturers, and especially those containing not only dashes of alkali to correct the much vomited, but wholly imaginary "acidosis," and even such drugs as acetanilide, aspirin, phenacetine and other coal-tar derivatives having nerve-numbing effects, we can only say the public gets a thoroughly bad deal from the federal and state authorities who permit the sale of such dangerous nostrums in such innocent guise. There is no legitimate warrant for incorporating dope in such medicines.

Setting Stage For Throw-In Play

By Harold Sharpsteen.

In setting the stage for a throw-in, the contract is being played in a suit, declarer's task is made comparatively simple, chiefly because the problem is a visible one, as far as declarer is concerned.

With a hand that could be increased at least one trick provided definite opponent was forced to make a favorable return lead, declarer simply proceeds to:

Strip his own and dummy hand of two suits, retaining at least one trump in each hand.

Unless declarer has a perfect "count" on opponent's hand and knows precisely what suit opponent must return, these trump cards are required to execute ruff and discard play if necessary.

Follow South's play in the accompanying deal where six clubs was made by C. W. Tainter, Cambridge, Mass., by a throw-in.

North.
S-10 7 5
H-A J 9
D-A
C-A 9 7 4 3 2
West.
S-K 9 4
H-8 5 4 2
D-K Q J 10
C-Q
South.
S-A Q 8 2
H-K 3
D-4 3
C-A J 10 8 5

ELIMINATES RED SUITS.
West led the diamond king won by dummy's ace. One round of clubs exhausted opponents' trumps. South then eliminated diamonds and hearts from his own and dummy hand, retaining trumps in both and reducing all hands to:

South.

East.
S-K J 9 4
H-8

At this point in the play dummy's spade 10 was led. Whatever spade honor East might play,

Use a Perfume That Will Enhance Your Personality

By Lillian Mae.

Smart women no longer use a perfume just because the odor is pleasing. Instead, they select scents that blend with, and enhance their own personality.

I have news for you today about a perfume which is not exactly new, but the news concerning it is that it may now be bought not only in the various sizes of original bottles ranging from a simple one to one of crystal and marble, as packaged in France, but also by the dram, right here in your Atlanta shops.

It is one of the most subtly elegant perfumes I've ever known. Just a bit of it creates an atmosphere of sophisticated charm that is immediately distinctive. You'll be asked many times—as I have been—what the unusual and altogether delightful perfume is, whenever you wear it. It's that outstanding!

News also, is that there is now an eau de cologne in the same fragrance. And what a gala event an ordinary bath becomes when a few drops are sprinkled into the tub! The delicate perfume will cling to your body for hours.

A combination package of the perfume and cologne makes an enchanting gift. But on the other hand, no woman, young or old, who loves a perfume of unusual

South was ready to promptly cover. But East held only the spade six and three and the spade ten rode up to West.

Thrown into the lead, West must either lead up to South's spade ace-queen tenace or lead a heart or diamond, allowing declarer to sluff his losing spade in the dummy while ruffing in his own hand with a club trump.

A New Fall Idea

By Barbara Bell

This new frock presents such a happy combination of good looks and usefulness that it can go on first thing in the morning, be worked in comfortably all day, and need not be replaced until you're ready to dress for dinner. That side belt, tied in a sash bow, is a splendid idea for day dresses, because it gives a trim, slender waist, and still leaves plenty of leeway for action.

This design has a slight blouse to make it even more unhampered. The buttoned front is quick and handy to get into. The high neckline, tab trims and rows of braid give a bright touch of decoration. Make up this dress in percale, linen, gingham or sports silk—it's a pattern you'll want to use time and again.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1612-B is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 42 and 44. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 (34) requires 5 3/8 yards of 35-inch material. Three yards of braid or bias binding.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

ALABAMA, PITT AND MINNESOTA LEADING PARADE

Mehre's Ole Miss Team's Upset of L. S. U. Biggest Surprise.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Three major powers—Pittsburgh, Alabama and Minnesota—stood firm, a few startling upsets shook the prognosticators and a multitude of eleveners were idle or playing "batting practice" games as football's gaudy carnival took over the nation sports scene Saturday. Well earned triumphs for the Panthers, Crimson Tide and Gophers indicated these perennial claimants for the national championship are still strictly out of the game's "top drawer," but they hardly can be taken as omens for undefeated seasons.

Shocking defeats for Louisiana State, Tulane, Illinois and Maryland do not mean these teams are out of the picture. Many a team has been galvanized into furious action by an early season defeat.

Many of the most highly regarded eleveners including Cornell, Dartmouth, Rice, Ohio State and Fordham, have not yet played or are knocking off minor league opposition.

Pittsburgh, eastern paladin for many a season, opened in awesome fashion. West Virginia, long a terror against "big name" teams, was outplayed in every way with All-America Marshall Goldberg punching over two Pitt touchdowns in the 19-0 win.

HALTED BY BAMA. Southern California's march back to the heights was temporarily halted by Alabama in one of the day's two major intersectional frays, 19-7. The Trojans were beaten badly by a 'Bama team waging a holy war to make up for the Rose Bowl defeat.

Minnesota, the Big Ten champion, gave conference rivals something to think about by trimming a good University of Washington eleven, 15-0. By the same token Bernie Bierman will have some sleepless nights. Gophers were ragged on offense, couldn't stage a sustained drive and all they have to beat next Saturday is Nebraska, the Big Six champion.

Two upsets occurred in the south. A veteran Clemson outfit drubbed Tulane 13-10, while Mississippi conquered Louisiana State, 20-7. Ohio University, tough for any eleven, dumped Illinois, 6-0. Maryland, touted as a Southern conference contender, was emphatically licked by Richmond, 19-6.

Chief external surprises were St. Bonaventure's 7-6 win over Manhattan and the 32 points rolled up by Army's speedy backs against a supposedly strong Wichita eleven.

HARD PRESSED. California, the coast and Rose Bowl champion, was hard pressed to whip St. Mary's 12-7, but uncovered a versatile attack. Oregon opened the Coast conference schedule by trouncing Washington State, 10-2.

Vanderbilt and South Carolina scored intersectional victories in the midwest, the Commodores beating Washington U. of St. Louis, 20-0, while South Carolina downed Xavier of Cincinnati, 6-0.

Purdue, always a Western conference threat, opened by downing Detroit, 19-6, and uncovering great power overland and in the air, while Kansas, which meets Notre Dame next week, just beat Texas' improved Legions, 19-18.

WEST END CARDS
ALL-STAR SHOW

Three wrestling bouts will be seen at the West End arena to-night when Young Gotch, the Miami star, meets Charlie Layden, of Denver; Al Olsen, the Boston gob, ties up with Robert Brown, of Canada; and Wild Bill Collins meets Irish Paddy Nolan.

Fans have requested since they saw Layden in action here for the first time four weeks ago, that this scientific boy who is one of the fastest matmen in the game, be matched with Young Gotch. The Colorado star uses kangaroo kicks to perfection.

Robert Brown, the rough Canadian who defeated Jack Ross, the Greek, will meet another rough customer when he tackles Sailor Olsen in the semi-final, winner take all set.

The opening match should provide plenty of thrills as Promoter Frank Bettis has signed Wild Bill Collins to meet Irish Paddy Nolan. This bout will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Ex-Bulldog Manager Passes at Asheville

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Almond Westbrook, 32, formerly of this city, and student manager of the University of Georgia football team in 1926, died in Asheville, N. C., early today after a month's illness. He was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity and was a resident of Asheville at the time of his death. Funeral services and interment will be held here Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

All in the GAME

by Jack Troy

SULPHUR DELL, NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 25.—King Football was discovered today in a mountain retreat, his head swathed in cold towels. The king was moaning and muttering in his beard.

"I have never known such an opening in my born days," said the king, holding his head and calling for more towels.

"Why don't they tell me about these things?" he demanded. "Who had any idea Harry Mehre, the slicker, had all those aces up his sleeve? Yes, and who figured Stetson as anything but a type of headpiece the well-dressed man might wear? And will someone please explain what happened to Tulane, and how Sewanee scored on Tennessee?"

The king was having a bad day. His chillun had kicked over the traces in a madcap Saturday.

The Southeastern conference has never known such a series of outstanding upsets.

Going into the second Saturday of the season, L. S. U. probably already is erased from the conference picture; the Tulane bubble is burst; Florida has received a staggering blow.

The events of opening day, however, may be interpreted as an indication of what to expect on future Saturdays.

Tulane may bounce back and give Auburn a better game than many expect. Clemson was figured as a strong club, but not up to beating the Greenies in what was supposed to be their year.

Clemson beat Tech one season they weren't supposed to, also. Coach Jess Neely has done a great job in the last few years.

At any rate, football followers can see what kind of a year is in prospect.

Those who had seen L. S. U. in practice described the material in glowing terms. It seems they were three and four deep, with great backs and linemen galore.

The only thing about that is that only eleven men can play at a time. And it is obvious, by the score, that Harry Mehre's Ole Miss Rebels had the best eleven men. Mehre has done the best coaching job of the year so far.

What happened to Florida, no one will ever know. Josh Cody, entering his third year of coaching, was very optimistic about the material. He thought Florida really had it. And yet Stetson won the game—the first win over the 'Gators since 1909.

Can't you hear those alumni moaning. It was a really tough break for Cody, the big man.

Georgia had a tough time with a lighter but fighting Citadel team. Citadel never had scored on Georgia; but when the first half ended, the Cadets were ahead, two touchdowns to one. The Bulldogs were the Cadets down, all right, but it was a scrap all the way.

Strange happenings may unfold on future Saturdays. Anything can happen, now that Stetson has whipped Florida, and Sewanee has scored on Tennessee.

RED REGIMENT ROMPS.

Southern California had no license to score on Alabama, in the premier intersectional game of Saturday.

Charley Boswell fumbled a punt, and a Trojan recovered on the Alabama 2-yard line. A line buck brought a touchdown.

In reality, Alabama should have won by 19 to 0. So that is indication enough of what Coach Frank Thomas has assembled in the way of a super-dreadnaught aggregation of the gridiron.

Herky Moseley is just what the coaches thought he would be—a better passer, kicker, and ball carrier than Joe Kilgore.

Southern California was acclaimed as the greatest Trojan team in a decade. Alabama stopped the power plays cold and won as they pleased.

If that showing does not set Alabama up as a Rose Bowl possibility for the second straight year, I'll eat Capus Brewer's hat.

They sort of go haywire on the coast about their football teams. For instance, the betting odds were 10 to 7 against Alabama.

Right-thinking observers did the natural thing, however. They picked Alabama. They beat the drums out on the coast out of all proportion to the team they selected to build up.

One fact always will remain true: If 'Bama hadn't fumbled at crucial moments in the Rose Bowl, California would have been given the same kind of treatment.

Crimson was just a shade away from greatness on January 1, however.

The balance lacking then is a matter of actual fact now.

A GRID NATURAL.

If Southern California is so good—all the experts out there figure the Trojans as conference champion—and comes on through the rest of the schedule undefeated, and Alabama should go undefeated in the remaining games, then what would be more of a natural than to rematch these teams in the Rose Bowl?

It's a promoter's dream. Alabama would not object to playing the Trojans twice in a season, I am sure. In fact, if Alabama played Southern California every Saturday this season, the Crimson Raiders would be assured of an unbeaten season.

So maybe Southern California wouldn't want any more of Alabama. But it sho' does look like a natural from this distance.

PROLONGING THE SERIES.

The bottom fell out of the Cracker pitching today, and the Vols won their first game of the series, after losing three in a row.

The Crackers hit well and scored enough runs to win an ordinary game, but they could not get any pitching. Consequently, the fans witnessed a ball game in which there were 36 hits made and 27 runs scored.

Sunkel staggered at the outset, and the Crackers used Durham, Stein, and Pritchett, to no avail. Collier failed Nashville, as did Birkhofer, and Johnson finished.

The Crackers need only one victory, and hope to get it tomorrow night with Beckman pitching.

The best-laid plans of the players to get four straight went awry when the pitching collapsed.

The Vols' victory was considered in the nature of an upset and a sort of hangover from the Saturday football happenings, which, among other things, saw little Ohio University topple Illinois.

BEAUMONT WINS TEXAS PLAYOFF, PLACE IN SERIES

Exporters Conquer San Antonio, 3-2, in Finale of Hard Series.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Beaumont Exporters became Texas league champions this afternoon by defeating San Antonio 3 to 2 in the eighth and deciding game of the final playoff round.

Manager Al Vincent's base running and the relief hurling of Paul "Dizzy" Trout featured the victory. The series, as stubbornly fought as any in the history of the league, went the maximum of seven games and then one more for good measure as a result of Friday's 12-inning tie.

Beaumont finished the regular season eight games in front, taking the lead in July and holding it without difficulty. In the playoffs Tulsa was defeated three straight but San Antonio made a real issue of it.

Schoolboy Rowe, Dizzy Trout and Ed Selway are the leading pitchers on the Beaumont club.

MACON DEFEATS MOBILE IN FIRST

MACON, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Macon Peaches popped into the lead at the outset of the Southeastern-South Atlantic inter-league series today by defeating Mobile, of the Southeastern, 6 and 4.

Although outthit 9 to 8 by the Mobile Shippers, the winners of the Sally Shaughnessy play-off got four bases on balls to two for their opponents. Stratton's lone three-bagger and a bunch of singles put the necessary runs across.

Each side used two pitchers. Doyle and Gardner hurled for Mobile and Baker and Intlekofer for Macon.

ARMY POLOISTS DEFEAT GUARDS

For the third consecutive Sunday the Army polo team outplayed the Governor's Horse Guard to win, 9-5.

The Army's superior team work and long drives down the field kept the Horse Guards on the defensive throughout the entire game.

Because of the dry field both teams were repeatedly warned by the referee against quick turns and sudden stops.

Brown and Risko Set for Fight Tonight

Atlanta Boy and Ex-Middleweight Champ Top 38-Round Show.

By THAD HOLT.

Handsome Ben Brown hopes to startle the boxing world in a manner in which Ole Miss's victory over L. S. U. Saturday night shook the realm of football when he climbs through the ropes to do battle with Babe Risko, once the king of the middleweights, tonight at Warren arena.

The 20-year-old Atlanta boy and the 25-year-old ex-champion meet in a return match that has been three months in the making, and which even now is not completely made, since the number of rounds and a referee have not at this late hour been agreed upon.

Brown's manager, Sam Sobel, is agreeable to a 12-round fight, believing his protegee to be in shape for the longer route. Risko signed for a 10-rounder, but may decide at the last minute to accept the longer war since he is regarded as a long distance fighter.

Sam Sobel, who knows his way around in the fist business, has left the selection of a referee up to Risko and Promoter Virgil Warren. That is a strange attitude for Strange Sam to take in a fight so important to his meat ticket.

But apparently Mumbly Sam believes it even he say that "any one who can count 10 will do as a third man" because Ben will knock him out before five rounds.

Brown has improved since their first and last meeting, which ended in a questionable draw. Ben has flattened his last four opponents, flashing terrific punching power. Whether or not he has found a way to solve Risko's smart and resourceful defense and can keep away from the Babe's body attack will not be definitely known until late tonight. This correspondence believes that Ben will destroy Risko before the bout is more than six rounds old. No middleweight can be hit with Ben's right hand and enjoy the rest of the evening. Ben's job then will be to connect.

KIDNEY PUNCHES.

Risko has not intimidated whether he will attempt to throw the kidney punches which characterized their first appearance here. The referee will be informed by the commission that when a fighter strikes a deliberate blow, he is to lose the round.

Frankie Allen, Atlanta youngster, boxes Joe Epperson in the eight-round semi-final of the 38-round card. Paul Gentle and Harold Rakestraw meet in a six. Kid Choccolate and Straight 8 Pryor, clever colored rivals, battle in a six. A four-rounder will open the bill.

Indications point to a crowd of 3,000 attending Atlanta's most important fight since the days of Young Striking. The first glove will be thrown at 8:30.

Homecoming Shoot Celebrates Club's Sixth Year of Operation.

By CLINT DAVIS.

West End Gun Club's annual Homecoming Day shoot ended in a tie between its star performer, Dr. LeRoy Childs, and the president, Benson Freeman Jr., when both shooters turned in scores of 50 straight in the day's competition. A shoot-off was prevented by darkness and will be shot next Sunday.

Fifty straights are every-day affairs to Childs, but such spectacular shooting on the part of Freeman, who has been shooting "just for fun" for these many years, proved more than the boys could figure out.

With first and second place going to Freeman and Childs, Clint Davis won third prize with Hiles Hamilton, of Rome, taking fourth place in Class A.

Gordon Hight, also of Rome, won first place in Class B with a score of 46; Lester Spurlin finished as runner-up in this class with a score of 45. In posting this excellent score, Spurlin made his first 25 straight run. Third and fourth places went to H. J. Fields and Bill McBride, respectively.

Class C was won by A. W. Hogue who scored a 40 for his first prize win at the club. Dr. S. C. Howell was runner-up with 40, the tie being decided by tossing a coin. Russ Vibberts and P. M. Gilbert won third and fourth-place prizes.

Prizes in the event were awarded by the Lewis handicap method. A large number of members and old timers competed in the shoot which celebrated the club's sixth year of operation.

SCORES:

LeRoy Childs, 50; Benson Freeman, 50; Hiles Hamilton, 47; C. L. Talley, 47; Clyde King, 47; Clint Davis, 47; Gordon Hight, 46; Lester Spurlin, 45; J. J. Wiles, 44; T. W. Wills, 44; Gene Gull, 44; Bill McBride, 44; Dick Hull, 44; Swift Tyler Jr., 44; A. W. Hogue, 40; S. C. Howell, 40; Russ Vibberts, 40; P. M. Gilbert, 39; G. D. McGough, 38; Dameron Black, 38; Chester Moore, 37; Larry Grant, 37; R. C. Harrison, 31; 25 Bird scores: Ike Duke, 21; Grover Thomas, 21; Hugo Howell, 19; Harry Watkins, 18; Homer Howell, 15; J. Lewis, 13; Mrs. Homes Howell, 6; Joe Sewell, 3.

Adair Park Deadlocks Walco League Playoff

Adair Park defeated Medics in the second game of the Walco league play-off on Warren field Sunday afternoon, 9 to 2. "Monk" Webb struck out 10 and hit safely 3 out of 5 times at bat to lead the parkmen. Smith hit 3 for 4 for Adair. Lawler and Jackson hit 2 for 5 for the losers.

In an effort to complete the series, now tied at one all, a second game was started but was called in the fourth on account of darkness. The teams have won one game each, and the play-off will be finished soon.

Adair Park 120 001 002—9 13 1 Medics 120 001 000—2 7 4 Webb and Melvin; Fick, Thompson and Elzer.

BILL BECKMAN TO TRY TO CINCH SERIES TONIGHT

Atlanta's Pitching Collapses; Mailho, Lipscomb, Chapman, Walker, Homer.

By JACK TROY.

SULPHUR DELL, NASHVILLE, Sept. 25.—The Vols scored twice as many runs and batted out one less hit than they had secured in the other three games put together to crush the Crackers, 18 to 9, in the fourth game of the Shaughnessy play-off series today.

Manager Charley Dreesen's second-place club, waking up at long last, scored twice as many runs for a total of 21 hits, two of them home runs. Calvin Chapman and Hub Walker hit those.

The right field screen sagged under the steady barrage of line drives. Cracker pitchers escaped unscathed, only their dignity being wounded.

15 SAFETIES.

The Crackers did well enough in hitting with 15 safe blows, including homers by Mailho and Lipscomb, but their pitching was of the dime a dozen variety.

Tom Sunkel, Bobby Durham, Pete Stein and Ted Pritchett must have looked at a cross-eyed taxi driver before the game. Certainly something had put the whammy on them. Orin Collier and Ralph Birkhofer had nothing to brag about, either. Neither did Woody Johnson. There wasn't any pitching in the entire lot today.

The fifth game of the series will be played tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, with Bill Beckman due to pitch for the Crackers. Dreesen may come back with either Bill Crouch or Collier.

COLLIER SHELLED.

Orin Collier didn't last long enough to catch his breath in the first inning. Bolling greeted him with a double off the right field screen. Mailho's single to center scored Bolling. Chatham singled to right, scoring Mailho. Chapman fumbled the ball and Chatham went to third. Lipscomb hit into a double play and Chatham scored. Mauldin walked and Richards singled. Then Oetting fanned.

In the Vols' half Walker walked and Rodda and Walker both were safe on a fielder's choice. Chapman hit a home run due to right field screen, knotting the score. Lee grounded out. Singles by Haas and Coscarart followed. Hofferth singled to right, scoring Haas. Brown lined to Mauldin and Coscarart scored.

Peters batted for Sunkel in the second and beat out a slow roller. Bolling lined to Walker. Mailho lined into a double play, Coscarart to Haas.

Durham went in to pitch for the Crackers. After Walker grounded out, Rodda and Sunkel singled. Lee lined to Mauldin and Rodda scored after the catch. Chapman went out stealing. Richards to Lipscomb.

CHATHAM SINGLED.

In the Crackers' half Chatham singled. Hill was hit by a pitched ball. Both runners advanced as Lipscomb grounded out. Mauldin flied to Walker. Chatham flied after the catch. Richards flied to Lee.

The Vols scored two more in the third. Coscarart singled and Brown doubled. Birkhofer grounded to Bolling. Durham, covering first, dropped the ball and Brown scored.

The Crackers loaded the bases with the winning run. The fifth and Richards fouled to Hofferth.

The Crackers couldn't do anything right today. Coscarart walked and advanced on a wild pitch. Hofferth flied to right center and Mauldin and Mailho let the ball slip between them. Coscarart scored.

The sixth brought more Vol scoring. Walker walked and Rodda singled to right. Both advanced on Stein's wild pitch. Chapman singled to right, scoring.

St. Louis Browns Win Over Cincinnati

STREET NOTIFIED HE CAN'T RETURN TO LEAD BROWNS

St. Louis Officials Say No Successor to Gabby Yet Named.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Gabby Street was notified today that he will not be signed to manage the St. Louis Browns next season.

The news came with unexpected suddenness shortly after the Browns' double victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The announcement was issued by President Donald Bakis of the American League club.

Street, who said it was a reply to Gabby's request to learn his status for next year.

"I advised him the club did not expect to renew his contract for 1939," Bakis stated.

"He has served the club faithfully, and I believe he has done as well as anyone could have done but I believe it is necessary to engage a new manager."

The old Sarge, however, will continue for the balance of the season.

"And it will be considerable time after the season closes before the new leader is selected," Bakis added.

Bakis said he had a number of men in mind to succeed Street, but he declined to mention any names.

Street's dismissal comes just two weeks after Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, surprised the baseball world by firing Frankie Frisch as manager of the Gas House gang.

It was recalled that Street was succeeded as manager of the Cards in mid-season, 1933, by Frisch, and now both are out.

"A veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars, the 'Old Sarge' has been in baseball more than 30 years as a catcher, coach and manager."

Three decades ago he became known as one of baseball's greatest catchers while he was the battery mate of Walter Johnson, great fireball pitcher of the Washington Senators.

Chattanooga Race Won by Atlantan

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 25.—(AP)—C. R. Ledbetter, Atlanta, won the Southern Tourist trophy motorcycle race here today, barely finishing ahead of Al Aupapa, Miami, Fla. The regular 100-mile course was cut to 80 miles because of its rough condition.

GOLF NEWS OF ATLANTA

21 FOURSOMES. Twenty-one foursomes participated in the weekly dogfight tournament Sunday afternoon at East Lake. The winning foursome had a score of 115. They were: George Sargent, White, C. S. Moeckel and J. W. Roach.

Text at 117 were: George Elliott, L. W. Martin, Dr. J. H. Hays and H. W. Travis. Two foursomes tied for third honors with a score of 120. They were: Burtzloff, H. S. Humphries, E. A. Lemmons, J. C. McCown and Jack Robinson; P. C. Lombard, H. D. Kline and M. V. Brandt.

Farmer, J. J. McConnehey, J. C. Wilhoit and Harry Marlow had a score of 118.

Four foursomes were tied for the next best honors with a score of 121. They were: Shorty Jones, H. H. Hays and W. E. Malcom, John McKinley and W. C. H. Hays, H. H. Hays and W. C. H. Hays, and H. H. Hays and W. C. H. Hays.

MIXED FOURSOME. In the mixed foursome matches also held on the East Lake links, the winners were Mrs. O. E. Kearney and Dr. L. H. Kelley, who had a score of 117. They were followed by a score of 122 were Miss Mary Duncan and M. W. Wilson.

Miss Ruth and Dr. Paul Grady were next with a score of 163. Mrs. L. H. Kelley and Dr. H. H. Hays were last with a score of 164.

LADIES DAY. Wednesday morning will be Ladies Day at East Lake and only ladies will participate. Play will begin promptly at 9 o'clock.

ANSLEY PARK. Four golfers hit the winning number, which was 80, in the weekly blind bogey at Ansley Park Sunday. They were: H. L. Reeves, William Lohse, J. D. Porter and Don James.

Edgar Neely and H. W. Beck Jr., were second at 79.

BOBBY JONES BOGEY. Old Nick, 77, was the winner in the blind bogey at Bobby Jones course Sunday and two players, R. H. Ventress and Gene Christopher had H.

INGLESIDE CLUB. Herbert Elias won the blind bogey at Ingleside Country Club yesterday when he had a 75, which was the winning number.

Pittsburgh Wins 19th Game; Red Sox Beat Yanks.

Buck Newsom Wins 19th Game; Red Sox Beat Yanks.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. The Boston Red Sox won tied in a double-header with the Yankees, taking the opener 5 to 3 in ten innings and deadlocking the night cap at 2-2 before darkness ended hostilities with six innings over.

The St. Louis Browns scored two easy victories over the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 2 and 8 to 4. The first game victory was the nineteenth of the year for Buck Newsom, the Browns' ace hurler.

Gerald Walker and George McQuinn hit homers in the night-cap.

The Washington Senators took the second game of a double-header from the A's today 5 to 4 in a session stopped at the end of the seventh because of darkness. The A's took the first 6 to 5 in an extra inning.

The Detroit Tigers batted out a 7-to-5 victory to end at two-all their final series with the Cleveland Indians, but Hank Greenberg was no nearer the home run record he hoped to break.

The big first baseman, up four hits, had only a double to his credit. The only homer of the day was Cleveland's, Jeff Heath smacking one out in the ninth.

For Boots Poffenberger it was his second victory in as many starts since he recall to Detroit from Toledo. He allowed 10 hits, while Dennis Galehouse let the Tigers have 12. Both pitchers were credited with two strikeouts and one base on balls apiece.

At Stephen's Party, Lyle Hears That Jeff Drove to Boston With Troy

By MARGARET NICHOLS.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. After living in New York three months with Bonnie and Michael Hill, Lyle Marsh gets a job under Suzanne Gibson, art manager for a department store. Bonnie, who went to art school with her in Baltimore, predicts a brilliant future for Lyle. The first day Lyle goes to work, a young executive, follows her to a cafeteria and introduces himself. "I state with wealthy Troy," Lyle says the next evening, but one evening Lyle dines together, but one evening Lyle waits in vain; Troy had forced him to take her to his apartment and return. Did Lyle's week-end party in Connecticut Jeff asks Lyle to marry him. She says she can't until she has repaid her mother. Troy appears at Stephen's party, tells Lyle why Jeff didn't marry her, then leaves weeping. Michael falls in love with Helene Kent, his employer's daughter, and Bonnie, taking little Mike, goes to her parents in Baltimore. Stephen sends Jeff to Chicago on an important mission. Ray, who is drunk and Stephen discharges him. Bonnie returns, and Lyle can't find a job after some weeks Stephen tells Lyle he has been promised a position for which Lyle is not qualified. After a week Lyle calls Jeff's apartment and over the phone hears many voices. She goes there and a girl answers her knock. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV. Some one asked, "Ray, what is the matter with you tonight? You've said almost nothing. You've been sitting in a corner growling for hours."

A girl named Lettice laughed. "Let him alone. I know what's wrong. And to Ray, 'The girl who shares my apartment is disappointed, too, and probably growling. She'd planned to drive to Boston with Troy, too, but had to take a train. Obviously Troy preferred the passenger whose name she wouldn't mention.'"

Ray flared, "You don't have to be very smart to guess who the passenger is!" He looked at Lyle. "Jeff drove to Boston with Troy. Did you know that? I think you should. Aren't you supposed to be engaged to him?"

Lyle lowered her eyes. "Yes, I knew he was driving to Boston with her." A lie quickly spoken in defense of Jeff. . . .

Ray said, "I'm sorry. I apologize. But when it comes to pulling underhand tricks, both Jeff and Troy are unequalled. I've been sore because when Jeff stepped out, I thought I'd stepped into his place. Now I don't know where I stand. I'm sorry."

He moved away and joined the bridge players. Lyle sat quietly, tautly, her lashes lowered. So that was why Jeff had said he was taking an afternoon train! He knew she could not get away in the afternoon! So that was why he was not driving his own car! But why hadn't he told her? Foolish question—that. He had not told her because he knew that of all girls she would object to Troy most, Troy who had come here at Stephen's that day and belittled and laughed at her.

When the tenseness created by Ray Hardy's outburst had passed, Lyle arose and went up the steps. At one end of the long second floor hall was a window-seat. She went to it and sat down and looked out the window, seeing a thick fog descending over the countryside.

Downstairs Suzanne said, low, "She can't trust him out of her sight."

Stephen said, "You mean that she can't trust him?" "I don't understand Troy," She nodded her dark head. "But then I do, I suppose. She's still in love with Jeff in spite of what she said about him the day she was here. Stephen, what has Jeff been living on all these weeks he hasn't worked. His family? But I understand they haven't much money. I know he doesn't have any money because he bought the new car shortly before he was let out. He never had any money."

Stephen inhaled deeply on his cigarette. "You don't mean what has been keeping him but—who? I'll make you another bet that it's Lyle. They have a joint bank account."

"Then it's worse than I thought," Suzanne looked genuinely distressed. "What is going to happen to them? What keeps it alive in her?"

"The first weeks they knew each other. She thinks it will be like that again."

She saw her go up the steps and knew he was going to Lyle. And she was afraid not for Lyle, but for him. Because the soft deep rug on the second floor cushioned his footsteps Lyle did not hear him until he spoke her name. Looking up, the glow and brightness gone from her face and eyes, she thought that he looked more serious than she had ever seen him. No use to pretend with Stephen to whom people were transparent. No use to say something flippant as if the scene downstairs had been forgotten.

"The first weeks they knew each other. She thinks it will be like that again."

She saw her go up the steps and knew he was going to Lyle. And she was afraid not for Lyle, but for him. Because the soft deep rug on the second floor cushioned his footsteps Lyle did not hear him until he spoke her name. Looking up, the glow and brightness gone from her face and eyes, she thought that he looked more serious than she had ever seen him. No use to pretend with Stephen to whom people were transparent. No use to say something flippant as if the scene downstairs had been forgotten.

In complete understanding their eyes met. "There are no stars tonight," Stephen said. "Tell me, Lyle, what did you mean that day when you said something about—touching the stars?"

"I've always thought that falling in love would be like touching the stars. Sometimes at night when the stars seemed close, I'd want to reach out and touch them. I thought when you fell in love you'd climb high enough to do that. And I did—the second night I saw Jeff and knew I was in love with him." Shaking her head slowly, she turned and looked out the window, seeing nothing except the thick milky fog. "You're perfectly right. Tonight there are no stars. I couldn't see them if they were there—for the fog." Then her voice broke. "Don't you see? That's the way I am tonight, Stephen? I can't see through the fog! I don't know where I'm going. And the stars are farther away than they've ever been. Oh, Stephen!"

He put his arms around her and held her against him, thinking that this was not the first time he had held her because Jeff had failed her. And the first time it had been because of Troy, too.

He said, "Tell me the truth, Lyle. How has Jeff been living—on your money?"

She caught her breath. How did he know? No use to lie or defend. Not to Stephen. "I don't know, she said. 'I've been giving him money every week to put in the bank for our joint account. He has the bank book. I won't accuse him of spending it because I'm not certain. Even if he has, I know he thinks he'll put it back when he's working. He's too proud to tell me. I don't mind that. Stephen, you—you don't want me to marry Jeff, do you?"

She broke away and looked up at him. Her lashes were wet. Gently Stephen put his hand under her chin and tilted her face. "I want you to have love and happiness," he said. "One usually thinks of the two as being synonymous. But they aren't—as you've discovered. You're in love but you aren't happy because your faith has been shaken. Lyle, I want you to have love and happiness because you're—you're . . ."

He took her close again and with one hand pressed her head against his. Suddenly he had not been able to go on! Suddenly he knew that he loved her. Suzanne had said Jeff loved Lyle more than he had ever loved anyone in his life! It was not Jeff—it was he, Stephen! And though the realization was sudden, falling in love with her had not been for it had been happening to him from the beginning and it had the solid foundation of laughter and friendship! And all along it had not been the talented artist who had intrigued him but Lyle herself, her loveliness the way she smiled, the way she gestured with her hands, the clear young voice in which she spoke. . . . It was Lyle, her auburn head pressed against him, now, her arms clinging to him, whom he loved and wanted more than he had ever loved or wanted anyone in his life!

What do you do when you fall in love with a girl who is engaged to another man, a man unworthy? Stephen thought. "To Lyle, I'm a tired shoulder to lean on and to cry on. And that's all I am or ever shall be as long as she loves Jeff—which will probably be forever."

He asked, "Is there anything I can do, Lyle?" He had an impulse to tell her about Jeff, all about his lies and schemes and drinking. And though it was probably the honest thing to do, he couldn't tell her. He thought, "I want to protect you against yourself. But you wouldn't understand that."

"You've already done so much for me," Lyle said. She straightened. Her eyes were clear again. "Stephen, everything has gone wrong since Jeff has been idle. Men can't stand idleness. They— I promised to get Jeff a job, and I will." Quite well he understood Jeff's going back to Troy. She restored Jeff's denied ego. And Jeff liked being seen with a girl who was rich and popular. Moreover, Stephen, who knew him so well, knew how difficult it was for Jeff to say no to anything that amused and flattered him. Dying to Boston in Troy's elegant car had been an adventure to Jeff who, until he had known Lyle, had flitted from one gay adventure to another. About Troy, Stephen thought as Suzanne did: "She's still in love with him." There was no denying Jeff's charm and attraction for girls.

Suzanne first saw the tip of Lyle's silver sandal on the stairs, then the hem of her silver dress, then Lyle, and then Stephen, frowning. And over Lyle's head Stephen looked directly at her and in that look Suzanne knew he was telling her that what he had vehemently denied and even faintly ridiculed that day in his office—was true. That steady look said, "I love her. She's the girl in the tower who needs to be rescued. I love her and I can't get her, Suzanne! I can't reach her!"

Suzanne and Stephen were the last to go upstairs that night. Stephen said soberly, "It seems rather a bad joke on me that I'm going to get Jeff a job so that he and Lyle can be married. I smooth the way for the girl I love to marry another man. Wasn't she lovely tonight? And tonight I remember that she's always been lovely and tonight I remember every time I've seen her and everything we've said to each other. And of all the girls I've known it's finally little red-headed Lyle Marsh. And nothing I can do or say will ever make me think of me as anything but—a vice president."

She looked into the fire. "Have you noticed my thoughtfulness tonight? It was just seven years ago that Walter Harris and I came to the end of the only love I've ever had."

He frowned. "Walter Harris. So that's who it was?" "Did you know him? After all these years I feel I can safely mention his name to you." She liked to say his name and saying it brought him close and clear again—his tallness, his hair prematurely mixed with gray, his brown eyes.

Stephen looked at her kindly. "Of course I knew him before he went west to live. Oh, I see. That's why he went—because you and he . . ." Then he took her hand. "Do you know that his wife died recently? Did you know her? I heard it just the other day."

Her eyes opened wide. "Her name was Claire Ferry. I never knew her but I saw her picture in the papers when he married her—three days after tonight seven years ago. So Walter is free . . ."

"Don't say it, Stephen! Don't think it! Don't let me!" "But if he should, being one of the most successful business women in New York wouldn't mean anything, would it?"

TARZAN AND THE FORBIDDEN CITY No. 115

Confidentially the Athairian warriors surged forward to kill Tarzan and his companions. And it seemed that they would accomplish their purpose easily. Then, suddenly, there came a gush, hissing sound, and a stream of water poured into the throne room.

Herkuf had thought and acted quickly. Throwing open the door of the air chamber, he had turned the valves, to let the waters of Lake Huru into the temple. Safe in their water suits, Tarzan and his friends watched the torrent hurl back their savage foes.

Cursing and yelling, the warriors sought to climb over each other in their mad panic to escape. Now that the threat of death had passed, Brian Gregory looked about him, and saw that Alan Thorne had vanished with the casket of the Father of Diamonds.

Brian quickly removed his helmet, and signaled Tarzan to do likewise. "You are Helen," he cried. "I'm going after Thorne. I'll get the casket, or die!" Tarzan tried in vain to dissuade him, but Brian turned and slushed toward the secret passage.

Federal Reserve Board Reports 5 Per Cent Rise in Production.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(UP)—Sharp spurts in industrial activity and employment during August and early September were reported by the Federal Reserve Board tonight as administration leaders saw other cheerful signs of recovery.

In its monthly summary of business and financial conditions, the board said that August industrial production rose from 83 to 88 per cent of the 1923-25 average, and that the advance continued into September. Factory employment and pay rolls showed a "marked rise" over mid-July, while distribution of commodities to consumers increased seasonally, it said.

General increases in production were noted in all lines of manufacturing except the automobile industry where there was a sharp seasonal decline, as plants closed for inventory purposes and the shift to new models. Steel mills continued increased output, rising from 35 per cent of capacity to 42 per cent in August, while gains were recorded in production of textiles, lumber, plate glass, coal, petroleum, and shoes.

Construction contracts awarded in 37 eastern cities increased over July largely because of the New Deal's "pump priming" expenditures, while factories producing durable goods reported their first employment gains since the summer of 1937. Freight car loadings were up also.
